THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR. LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1923. TWO CENTS

HOLDUPS GET $13,000

JOIN MANHUNT FOR BANDITS

SPENCER, Ind., Nov. 6.—A band of fifteen or twenty bandits who early today blasted the safes in two banks here and escaped with $13,000 in cash and securities, was believed this afternoon to have sought security in the hills of Kentucky.

Police and sheriff's posses thruout southern Indiana have practically abandoned hope of capturing the bandit band after searching for six hours.

The bandits drove into Spencer in four automobiles, captured Sam Vaughan, night watchman, bound him and locked him in the city hall, and then went about their work, Vaughan said.

Working swiftly, the bandits stationed men at all the principal corners of the city while others went about cutting all telephone and telegraph wires.

Heavy charges of nitroglycerine and dynamite were used to blow open the doors to the bank vaults. The interiors of both banks were demolished by the blasts.

After scooping up all the loot in sight, the bandits fled in their automobiles. Two townsmen, aroused by the blasts, appeared on the streets and were wounded by a volley of rifle fire from the bandits' cars.

Wild confusion spread over the city when the robbery became known.

Florence Kirkham, night operator in the telephone exchange over the bank, remained at her post while the building rocked under the force of the explosion.

Running from one end of the switchboard to the other, she tried frantically to get connections and notify police officials in nearby cities. She found every wire severed, however, and was unable to make connection.

When communication was restored several hours later, police in every town joined in the hunt for the bandits. No trace of them was found and it was believed they had made a hasty retreat either to southern Illinois or across the Ohio river into Kentucky.

SPENCER, Ind., Nov. 6.—Sheriffs and police officials of southern Indiana joined in a manhunt today for the bandit gang which escaped after robbing the First National and Exchange banks here of $13,000 and wounding two citizens, as they fled.

The gang numbered at least fifteen men and came to Spencer in four automobiles, according to Sam Vaughan, town night watchman

The bandits bound and gagged Vaughan and left him in the city hall while they entered the banks

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—Five bandits held up the Park Savings Bank, a new institution in a suburb here, just after the opening hour this morning and secured $2,380 and escaped in an auto.

Three employes and a passerby were held captive while the robbers grabbed all the cash in sight.

GERMAN PEASANTS AWAITING SIGNAL TO SEARCH FIELDS FOR LEAVINGS OF HARVESTING FARMERS

This photograph, made while food riots were disturbing various sections of Germany, shows a policeman holding back a band of peasants, many of them women, who were waiting for the farmers to finish the harvest. They rushed to the fields to pick up what the farm ers had left.

MAKE STEP IN ADVANCE

FRENCH AND AMERICANS ARE NEARING AN AGREEMENT.

Conference Between Hughes and Jusserand May Have Important Bearing on Proposed Reparations Parley.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The American government does not feel discouraged over the present trend of negotiations to bring about an economic expert confetence to examine Germany's reparations capacity, it was stated on President Coolidge's behalf at the white house today

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—A step toward an eventual agreement on the proposed expert conference to examine Germany's capacity to pay reparations has been taken between the United States and France, it was believed in official quarters here today

The whole fate of the American plan for bringing about a final settlement of the reparations question rests upon the differences of opinion that exist between the United States and France.

The last development in this difference of view between the two governments was the conference of almost two hours at the state department last night between Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Jusserand of France.

Despite various reports regarding this conference, it is known that the best informed authorities here take the view that a move towards an approachment on the proposed reparations conference was taken by both sides in the state department conference.

The conversation between Hughes and Jusserand was conducted in the most amicable spirit, according to those who know what transpired at the conference.

Following the Hughes-Jusserand conference, the American secretary of state went almost immediately to the white house and conferred with President Coolidge regarding the French reply to the American objections against a restricted conference that was communicated to Hughes by Jusserand and the attitude that Hughes outlined to the French envoy.

Again today the next move is regarded as due from Premier Poincare of France. While it is believed that there will be several days of negotiations before it is definitely known just what is the fate of the proposed conference, still it was pointed out in informed quarters here today that an announcement at any moment that the United States has found it futile to continue with their reparations plan would be entirely possible.

STATE REOPENS MOB HEARINGS

BASTROP, La., Nov 6.—The state having driven its opening wedge to re-open an investigation of the murders of Thomas Richards and Watt Daniel by a masked mob alleged to have terrorized dozens of citizens, today started to drive deeper into the heart of conditions in Morehouse Parish

Capt J K Skipwith, exalted cyclops of ku klux klan in this section, and three others were found guilty here late yesterday of carrying firearms on the premises of another. They may be fined or sentenced to jail

The state today called another of its long series of misdemeanor cases against Skipwith and other alleged mob members On the result of the cases will depend the final move in an attempt to fix responsibility for the brutal murders of Daniel and Richards, whose battered bodis were found in Lake Lafourche

A re-trial for Skipwith and three co-defendants, asked today, was denied by Judge Fred Odom. Skipwith stood with his ruddy face literally aflame beneath a snowy thatch when Judge Odom pronounced him guilty of gun toting The veteran sputtered angrily

Many townsfolk expect the fireworks to come when several supposed klansmen are to be tried for forcing persons to leave an automobile. This charge has to do with the kidnaping of Daniel and Richards and may result in re-opening of the entire murder case.

More interest was shown in the street corner gossip today in the fact that Mary Miles Minter's grandmother was stopping at the hotel, than in the trial

Most of the morning session was spent in arguments of defense and state attorneys over the motion for a new trial

NEBRASKA NEWS

Diller — When George Champ, farmer, living just north of this place, went to his field fence to repair it so as to hold back a large boar pig which was becoming troublesome, the animal became enraged and bit Champ on the hand viciously. The wound had to be cauterized Monday on account of infection setting in.

Wymore—Monday at the court house in Beatrice the Gage county treasurer sold all taxes remaining unpaid for the past year in this county. The delinquent list on the books of the treasurer amounted to approximately $35,000, being somewhats maller than for the same last year, the levy having been reduced slightly and making taxes less, except for property in consolidated school districts and where paving, sewers and other improvements had been made. This amount covers delinquenti ands in the twenty-five townships, and the fourteen cities and villages in Gage county. There were five bidders at the sale besides representatives of mortgage interests, and about three-fourths of the amount was sold, drawing 12 per cent for the bidders on their investment, according to law.

Wymore—Mayor Youll of Wymore, with his family, returned Monday from a three weeks' auto trip to Denver and Fort Morgan, Col. The mayor states that Nebraska highways are not bad, but that he had to drive in from four to twelve inches of snow which covers the ground from Denver to Fort Morgan.

Wymore—In the daily mail this morning for the law firm of Dinsmore & Pirie of Wymore, was a letter from a client at Hamburg, Germany, which was covered with postage to the amount of 15,000,000 marks At the pre war rate of about twenty cents United States gold as the value of a mark, this postage would be worth nearly $3,000,000

Wymore—James O'Neill, pioneer citizen of Wymore, has sold his home here and will remove to Holyoke, Colo., to make his future home He was a Burlington employe in the track department for sixteen years, and an employe in the Wymore Bottling works for the past ten years. He has also served several terms as city night watchman and as clerk of election boards here for several years. Two sons are in the banking business in the Colorado town where he and daughter, Helen, will move to.

GIVES PROCLAMATION FOR THANKSGIVING

President Coolidge Calls Upon Americans to Observe the Day in Gratitude for Blessings Bestowed.

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—In his proclamation today President Coolidge said:

"The American people, from their earliest days, have observed the wise custom of acknowledging each year the bounty with which Divine Providence has favored them. In the beginning this acknowledment was a voluntary return of thanks by the community for the fruitfulness of the harvest. Tho our mode of life has greatly changed, this custom has always survived It has made Thanksgiving day not only one of the oldest, but one of the most characteristic observances of our country. On that day, in home and church, in family and in public gatherings the whole nation has for generations paid the tribute due from grateful hearts for blessings bestowed.

"To center our thoughts in this way upon the favors which we have been shown has been altogether wise and desirable It has given opportunity justly to balance the good and the evil which we have experienced. In that we have never failed to find reasons for being grateful to God for a generous preponderance of the good. Even in the least propitious times a broad contemplation of our whole position has never failed to disclose overwhelming reasons for thankfulness. Thus viewing our situation, we have found warrant for a more helpful and confident attitude toward the future.

"In the current year, we now approach the time which has been accepted custom as most fitting for the calm survey of our estate and the return of thanks. We shall the more keenly realize our good fortune if we will, in deep sincerity, give to it due thought and more especially if we will compare it with that of any other community in the world.

"The year has brought to our people two tragic experiences, which have deeply affected them. One was the death of our beloved President Harding, which has been mourned wherever there is a realization of the worth of high ideals, noble purpose and unselfish service carried even to the end of supreme sacrifice. His loss recalled the nation to a less captious and more charitable attitude It sobered the whole thought of the country A little later came the unparalleled disaster to the friendly people of Japan. This called forth from the people of the United States demonstrations of deep and humane feeling. It was wrought into the substance of good works. It created new evidences of our international friendship, which is a guarantee of world peace. It replenished the charitable impulse of the country

"By experiences such as these, men and nations are tested and refined We have been blessed with much material prosperity We shall be better able to appreciate it if we remember the privations others have suffered and we shall be the more worthy of it if we use it for their relief We will do well then to render thanks for the good that has come to us and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser and truer by the chastening which has been imposed upon us We will thus prepare ourselves for the part we must take in a world which forever needs the fullest measure of service We have been a most favored people We ought to be the most generous people We have been the most blessed people We ought to be the most thankful people

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge president of the United States, do hereby fix and designate Thursday the 29th day of November, as Thanksgiving day and recommend its general observance thruout the land. It is urged that the people gathering in their homes and their usual places of worship give expression of their gratitude for the benefit and blessings that a gracious Providence has bestowed upon them and seek the guidance of Almighty God that they may deserve a continuance of His favor."

TURNS BACK ON POLICE

Chicago Girl, Thought Companion of Bandit Murderer, Refuses to "Tell."

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—Ethel Beck, pretty and nineteen, turned up her nose at a dozen policemen and detectives today when they sought to force her to identify the man who shot and killed Edward Lehmann during a burglary Sunday Police charge the girl with having aided the burglar.

Lehmann, a watchman, discovered the girl and man at the Delson manufacturing plant. The girl's companion fired a shot and Lehmann died a few hours later from a wound in the breast

Walter C. Bokelman, twenty-five, said by police to be the girl's sweet heart, was arrested and charged with the murder

Attempts by police to have the girl fix the crime on Bockelman were futile. She turned her back on the roomful of police with the remark, "I'm not telling anything"

STOKES TRIAL RECESSED

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The retrial of W. E. D. Stokes' suit for divorce was recessed over election day. It will be resumed tomorrow and is expected to go to the jury before the end of the week.

The defense rested yesterday when Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Helen Elwood Stokes, was balked by the court in his attempt to recall the seventy-three-year-old husband of his client to the stand.

Four witnesses were recalled by Max D. Steuer, Stokes' attorney, in rebuttal, none of whom brought out anything very damaging to the defense.

ADMITS BOCKELMAN IS MAN

Ethel Beck of Chicago Identifies Accused as One Who Shot Watchman.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Breaking down under hours of merciless cross-examination, Ethel Beck, nineteen, this afternoon identified Walter C. Bockleman, twenty-five as the man who shot and killed Edward Lehmann, watchman during a burglary here Sunday.

The girl said that Bockleman shot Lehmann to escape arrest, police stated.

Officers also said the girl had confessed to being in the company of Bockleman when he broke into the manufacturing plant where the shooting occurred

ELECTIONS IN MANY STATES

POLITICIANS WATCH TREND IN THIRTEEN COMMONWEALTHS.

Heavy Vote Polled in New York—Klan Issue Figuring in Ohio Municipal Elections.

"Off year" elections in thirteen states were in progress today with politicians watching for indications of the national trend, on the eve of a presidential year.

Rain in many parts of the east failed to kep the voters from the polls, an unexpectedly large number voting early.

New York—A heavy vote was being polled for members of the assembly now republican by a slight margin.

Ohio—The ku klux klan issue figured in many municipal elections Union labor men took a holiday to get out the vote on an amendment to the workmen's compensation law and an old age pension measure.

Kentucky—The vote was unexpectedly light with a full state ticket being elected. The Kentucky gubernatorial result is considered highly significant in indicating the national trend.

Maryland—A quarter of Baltimore's total was cast in the first three hours of voting for governor. Negroes were reported voting for the democratic candidate because the ku klux klan supported the republican.

Illinois—Four hundred thousand ballots were expected in Cook county's judicial election.

Virginia—Victory for Virginia's $50,000,000 good roads bond issue was forecast when rain kept the farmers from the polls.

North Carolina—John H. Kerr, democrat, was being elected to the congressional seat of the late Claude Kitchen. There was no opposition.

Mississippi—Election of full democratic state slate is conceded, there being no opposition.

New Jersey—Retmarkably heavy vote cast for legislative candidates despite rain.

Vermont—A democratic weather prevailed — rain — and democrats claimed to be polling the biggest vote in history of Vermont, altho G O P victory is practically assured A senator and representatives to be chosen.

Elections in other states were of minor interest.

POLITICAL SKY IS HEAVILY OVERCAST

Survey Shows That Everyone Is Asking If Coolidge Is Strong Man or Just a Cautious One.

By Lawrence Martin
(Copyright 1923 by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Seldom has the American political sky been more clouded than it is today with fogs of uncertainty and mystery.

A survey of the number of western, southern and eastern states, just completed, reveals these typical facts, which probably are characteristic the country over.

1 The one big question which is being asked everywhere and which nobody at this juncture can answer satisfactorily, is: "What about Coolidge: is he going to make good: is he a strong man or just a cautious one?"

2 There is no outstanding political figure today in either party who has gripped popular sentiment or about whom the people are rallying.

Lacking close contact with and understanding of Mr. Coolidge, the people are not warming up to him or getting behind him with any particular enthusiasm. Recognizing this, the lieutenants of other republican aspirants have become exceedingly busy in many states, trying to stir up support for their candidates

The democrats are in a like situation. In one state McAdoo seems best liked; in another Underwood sentiment is stronger, while Ralston seems pretty generally to be considered the real dark horse of the democrat party.

Everywhere the belief is expressed that Henry Ford will not be nominated by any party There is a noticable let down of the Ford boom.

There seems to be more interest right now in the prohibition and ku klux klan questions than in anything else The farm situation has narrowed down to the plight of the wheat farmers and many of them have settled things by getting out of wheat raising and buying dairy cows or otherwise shifting to a new line of production

In brief the country as typified by such states as Minnesota Illinois Indiana Kentucky Ohio Pennsylvania and New York is in such a condition of political uncertainty and doubt that almost anything is possible If some commanding figure emerged now, he could lead this people where he willed

JOHN DOE TAKEN IN RAID

Said to Have Told State Officer He Was W. J. O'Brien, Formerly of State Fishery.

John Doe, who told State Deputy Benton, the latter says, that he is W. J. O'Brien, formerly connected with the state fishery, was arrested Monday night at the Will Swartz farm six miles northwest of Louisville, and paid a fine of $100 at Papillion for illegal possession of liquor

State officers had gone to the Swartz farm to search for contraband when John Doe and a man said to be a lumberman from Louisville, came there after liquor. They found seven 50 gallon casks of wine, and brought seven samples to Lincoln for analysis.

Asks France For A New Explanation

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—The United States has asked France for a further explanation of the limitations Premier Poincare wants to put on the proposed economic expert conference to determine Germany's reparations capacity, it was learned on high authority today.

SOUDER CASE PROCEEDS

Wrangling by Attorneys Consumes Entire Session of Tuesday at North Platte.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb, Nov 6—The entire session of the Souder case today was consumed in wrangling by attorneys. W V Hayward, counsel for Sounder protested against the form of indictment, against appointment of special prosecutors and against everything else connected with the indictments It is believed his objection to employment of W. E Shuman as special prosecutor will be overruled

Charges of arson against Souder and Elmer Baker, his deputy, in connection with the burning of the court house will probably not be held until after the present trial and the trial of Carl Goucher, Omaha, charged with aiding and abetting a forgery Arthur S Allen, former county clerk, who pleaded guilty yesterday is expected to testify against Goucher.

The cases are to be held in the new court house which is unfinished. The walls are not even plastered. The judge sits behind a rough board bench and the tables used by the attorneys are made of boards supported by two-by-fours.

The trials are creating tremendous interest in Lincoln county

JURY INDICTS COBURN SLAYER

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6—Phil E. Fox, publicity agent for the ku klux klan, was charged with murdering W. S. Coburn, attorney for the William Joseph Simmons faction within the klan, in an indictment returned by the grand jury today.

Fox, who has refused to make any statement since he killed Coburn in his law office late yesterday, probably will go to trial next week

Police declared that additional arrests in connection with Coburn's murder would be made, indicating they believed the slaying was the result of a plot.

"These arrests will not be made today," said W. T. Sturdivant, police captain in charge of the probe, "but we have made some progress in investigating the motive for the murder."

The indictment against Fox was returned this afternoon after Mrs. W. A. Holbrook and Mrs. O. L. Haymond, the only eye witness to the murder of Coburn in his office here late yesterday had told their stories.

ANOTHER AUTO DEATH IN LINCOLN

ONE DEAD IN CAR ACCIDENT

Miss Bertie Meier Passes Away at the Hospital.

ETTA PARKS WILL RECOVER

Coroner's Jury Will Meet at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Auto Driven by H. H. Ketelhut Strikes Girls at Intersection of Sixteenth and N Streets—Driver in Jail.

Miss Bertie Meier, eighteen-year-old university student who was struck by an auto driven by H. H. Ketelhut, 2907 Starr street, at 8 p. m. Monday at the Sixteenth and N street intersection, is dead. She passed away at 3:15 a. m. Tuesday at St. Elizabeth, her death due to a fractured skull.

Miss Etta Parks, twenty, also a student, companion of Miss Meier, who was also injured, will recover. Her condition is not regarded as dangerous according to a report from St. Elizabeth's hospital Tuesday. The homes of both girls are at Scribner, Neb. They were roommates and lived at 1645 K street.

Thel nquest into the cause of the death of Bertie Meier will be held at Henry Brown's undertaking parlors, 206 South Eleventh street, at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

The coroner's jury before whom the inquest is to be held met at the parlors at 11 a. m. Tuesday, was sworn in and allowed to view the body. The only bruises on the body were over the left eye and on the right hand. The left eye was badly swollen and discolored. The bruise on the hand was slight. There were no other marks on the body.

The jurors selected by the county attorney to serve at the inquest were:

A. T. Wilcox — E. E. Young
Edward A. Becker — Dr.G O.W.Fardham
Harey Rea — George Dayton

Harry H. Ketelhut, 2907 Starr, driver of the auto which struck Miss Meier, is still being held in the city jail. He was taken to the police station at 10:30 p. m. Monday and has been held there. He was permitted to see a few visitors Tuesday forenoon. These included attorneys and men who claimed to have worked in barber shops with him.

How Accident Happened.

The two girls with Miss Verona Stabenow, also a Scribner girl who was visiting them here, were on their way to a show. They were walking north on the east side of Sixteenth street, and approached the crossing at N street. According to Miss Stabenow just as the three girls stepped off the curb, a light flashed in front of them and a car turning the corner struck them.

The car then swerved diagonally across the street, dragging two of them and struck a cement curb post where it stopped. Henry Brown's ambulance was called and the injured girls were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital. The parents of the victims arrived in Lincoln shortly after noon Tuesday. The remains of Miss Meier will be taken to her home at Scribner for funeral and interment.

According to Ketelhut's statement of the accident, just after receiving

ANTLES SPEAKS AT HYGIENE MEETING

Tells National Social Conference That Education Is Only Remedy for Contempt Toward Law.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6—Education is the only remedy for present prevalent attitude of contempt toward law, H. H. Antles, secretary of the Nebraska Public Welfare department, declared before the National Social Hygiene conference here today.

"In Nebraska there seems to be a feeling that we have just finished a carnival of law making. We have been so busy making laws for the regulation of people's every action that we neglected to teach the golden rule."

The people must be educated to the wisdom of social hygiene regulations before the laws now existent can be enforced, he said.

Surgeon General Hugh Cumming of the United States public health service in a paper declared that every one of the 12,000 high schools in the nation should be teaching sex hygiene as parts of courses in physical education, sociology and other subjects. Only 8½ per cent of the high schools now teach "social hygiene."

Social hygiene Cumming suggested should be interwoven among the studies, so that the attention of the students would not be centered on matters of sex.

Dr. Edward L. Keyes, professor of urology at Cornell University declared that the war gave a tremendous impetus to the social hygiene movement, making the United States safe for social hygiene whether or not it was made safe for democracy.

PROTEST NOT TO STAND UP

THIRTEENTH STREET PROPERTY OWNERS REFUSED.

Council Sitting as a Board of Equalization Votes One Way on Motion Submitted by Commissioner Cowgill.

The city council, closing its books Tuesday noon as a board of equalization, supported Commissioner Cowgill's motion to overrule objections by Thirteenth street property owners against the storm sewer assessment in connection with total assessment in pavink district 513, Thirteenth, B to South street.

The cost of the sewer is $4,950 or about five per cent of the cost of the entire project, paving included. The city paid one-third of the sewer cost leaving two-thirds or $3,300 to be assessed against the property within the district.

On Monday a group of interested property holders appeared before the board to protest against the principle of special assessment for storm sewers which, theyl contend, should be and generally are treated as general improvements to be paid for by general tax.

The question was raised as to the difference in cost of a pavement with high curb and adequate surface provisions to care for storm waters and the cost of a pavement without special facilities of the sort. It was stated that the pavement proper with underground sewer in connection costs less, disregarding the sewer cost, than the pavement built to carry water on the surface. An intimation of what this difference may be was offered by Commissioner Wright who asked of Mr. Cowgill:

"Couldn't you possibly spare $600 or $900 more from the sewer fund?"

"I cannot see my way clear to do it. We acted, but one third was about all we could stand."

Messrs. Dayton, Schroeder and Wright were unanimous in the pleasancy when Mr. Cowgill put the motion. After some delay it received a second.

The budget for the present fiscal year contained an item of $5,000 for storm sewers.

Attorney W. B. Comstock for a protest in blank but later withdrew it on behalf of a property owner or property owners. In view of this complaint, the board held back final action regarding assessments in the district.

WALTON ASKS WRIT.

LAWTON, Ok., Nov. 6.—J. C. Walton, suspended governor of Oklahoma, today carried his case to the federal courts.

Alleging a conspiracy to remove him from office as governor, Walton, thru his attorneys, asked a writ of injunction and a restraining order from federal court against members of the legislature, N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma ku klux klan, acting Gov. M. E. Trapp and others preventing his impeachment.

CHAUNCEY LEMEN IS FOUND GUILTY

Takes Jury Only Three Minutes to Convict Him of Escape From Reformatory—May Be Sentenced Friday.

Judge Stewart pronounced sentence on Chauncey Lemen at 2 p. m., making the penalty one to ten years in the penitentiary. Execution of sentence is to begin immediately on the expiration of his present sentence of two to fifteen years, for highway robbery.

Three minutes was the time required by the jury to render a verdict of guilty against Chauncey Lemen, champion checker player of Nebraska charged with escaping custody by running away from the state reformatory where he was serving a sentence of three to fifteen years for attempted highway robbery.

Lemen was brought to trial before District Judge Stewart Monday afternoon. The taking of the testimony was concluded during the first half day of the suit, leaving only the final arguments of the opposing counsels for Tuesday morning. With the conclusion of the argument of the states attorney, the judge read his instructions and gave the case to the jury. Within three minutes they returned. The penalty for this offense is one to ten years in the penitentiary. Lemen will probably be sentenced Friday.

COPS CALLING OMAHA MAN

WANTED IN UNIVERSITY PLACE COURT BUT CAN'T COME.

Business Keeps Him Away, So Plea of Guilty of Speeding May Be Entered and Fine Assessed.

E. John Brandeis, Omaha merchant, is in New York City and cannot conveniently answer the summons of the University Place police court, according to word that has unofficially reached the court. He is wanted there for speeding on the streets of that city Saturday, October 27.

The charge was filed by Deputy Speed Officer Harry Folsom of that city on the above date. Mr. Brandeis had been to Lincoln to attend the football game and is said to have exceeded regulations in passing thru University Place.

Omaha reports that a minion of the court has called at the office of Mr. Brandeis in Omaha and has been informed that Mr. Brandeis is in New York City on business, that he will not return to Omaha soon and that it is not convenient for him to appear in University Place police court. Other information indicated that Mr. Brandeis was in Omaha when the officers called on him.

It is understood that suggestion will soon reach the court that it will be acceptable to Mr Brandeis if a plea of guilty is entered, the fine assessed and the amount of fine and costs included in a bill to be sent to Mr. Brandeis. The assurance will be given, according to unofficial information that the bill will be paid at once.

Another Omaha Case.

The Lincoln Kiwanis club has asked University Place authorities to use more care in arresting guests of Lincoln since Fred C. Rudesill, Omaha merchant, was arrested on October 13 while on his way to Lincoln to attend the district convention of Kiwanians held here, according to August Eiche. Some of the Kiwanis members are a little warm over the affair.

When arrested Mr. Rudesill said that he had to get to the convention by ten o'clock and could not stop to attend to the case. Mr. Eiche said that Mr. Rudesill was a guest of the Lincoln Kiwanis club and that the University Place authorities were notified that the Kiwanis club would be responsible for the case and would pay the fine if one was imposed.

"I asked Mayor Baer, of University Place, to either rescind the fine or assess it to the Lincoln Kiwanis club and he assured me that he would be willing to do so and would take the matter up with the city council of University Place," said Mr. Eiche.

"We requested the University Place officers to use more discretion hereafter in arresting out of town people, especially guests of Lincoln. We appreciate the manner in which Lincoln police officers cooperated during the Kiwanis convention."

"The two officers who were in Omaha Monday in quest of Mr. Brandeis were University Place officers and did not represent the Lincoln police department," Chief of Police Johnstone declared Tuesday in wishing to make it plain that they were not members of his force.

RECESS IN FILLEY TRIAL

Judge Munger in Sioux City, Case Continued Until Wednesday at 9 O'Clock

Trial of the $70,000 libel suit against H. Clyde Filley and the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation, begun Monday in federal court was continued until Wednesday morning, Judge Munger having been summoned to Sioux City to sit in court Tuesday. Former Governor Lowden of Illinois is expected soon to testify for the plaintiff. W. G. Eckhardt, formerly of the Illinois agricultural college and state seed corn administrator under Lowden, Carl Vrooman, former assistant secretary of agriculture, will also testify.

BLAST BURIES MANY MINERS

Twelve Bodies Recovered in West Virginia Pit.

THIRTY STILL ENTOMBED

Gas Pocket Believed Cause of the Accident.

Seventy-five Workers Underground at Time of Explosion—Twenty-five Rescued Uninjured.

BECKLEY, W. Va., Nov. 6—Twelve bodies have been recovered from the pit of the Raleigh Wyoming Coal company Glen Rogers mine, near here, which was wrecked by an explosion this morning, according to a statement issued at noon today by company officials.

Thirty men are believed still entombed, the statement said.

Sixty-five workers went down the main shaft of the mine at dawn. Twenty-three made their way to the surface soon after the blast. They were uninjured.

Mine officials expressed grave fears for the fate of the thirty men who have not come up.

Rescue squads were making headway thru the debris in the mine at noon and several more bodies were being extricated, the mine officials said.

The cause of the blast has not been determined definitely but it is believed to have resulted from a pocket of gas collecting far back in the mine.

Wives and children of the men who earn their living far below the earth's surface presented a scene of deepest tragedy as they gathered around the mine.

The twelve bodies, many of them badly mangled, were brought, one at a time, to the little group at the top of the shaft.

Approximately seventy-five workers were in the mine when the explosion occurred. Twenty-five were brought to the surface uninjured.

First reports from the mine said the fate of the others was in doubt.

R. M. Lambie, chief of the state bureau of mines, was reported enroute here with rescue equipment.

The workers had been down in the mine only a short time when the blast came.

Women and children of the mining camp rushed to the opening of the Glen Rogers shaft at the first alarm. They saw the first twenty-five men come to the surface.

A pocket of gas far back in the workings of the mine was believed to have caused the blast, the men said.

Dense smoke and debris hindered the work of the first rescue squads to go back down the mine shaft.

SOUDER CASE HAS STARTED

EMPANELING OF JURY TO COMMENCE IN AFTERNOON.

Big Surprise When Former County Clerk Allen Enters Plea of Guilty to Embezzlement and Forgery Charges.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Nov. 6.—Trial of Samuel M. Souder, former county treasurer of charges of embezzlement and falsification of records will not get under way until next week, Judge Tewell indicated today, when he announced he would grant the prosecution several days in which to look up points of law involved in protests of defense attorneys.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Nov. 6.—This morning's session of the trial of Samuel M. Souder, former county treasurer of Lincoln county, under indictment for alleged embezzlement and larceny, was devoted exclusively to arguments of attorneys on technicalities in the indictments.

Empaneling of a jury will probably commence early this afternoon.

A big surprise was sprung yesterday, when A. S. Allen, former county clerk, unexpectedly entered a plea of guilty to charges of embezzlement and forgery. Allen was charged with having taken for his own use about $4,000 of county money. He will be sentenced later, Judge J. L. Tewell announced.

Souder is indicted on more than 100 charges for embezzlement, and twenty three charges of larceny, as bailee. He is also facing two charges of mutilating public records.

All but one of fifteen motions by Attorney W. V. Hoagland, chief counsel for Souder asking that charges of forgery, falsification of tax receipts and embezzlement be quashed, were overruled by Judge Tewell Monday. The one exception is still under advisement by the court.

Judge Tewell said today that when Souder's case is finished Carl Groschel, Omaha will be brought to trial. Groucher was indicted with Allen for alleged irregularities in the county clerk's office.

CUTS FEES OF GOODHUE

STATE AUDITOR DEDUCTS $6,600 INCOME TAX.

Holds It Not Proper Overhead Expense—Goodhue Has Drawn $202,351 of 121-2 Per Cent of Cost.

State Auditor Marsh has decided to deduct nearly $6,600 from future claims for expenses filed by Architect Goodhue. He has already recovered $1,777.29 and the balance, $4,820.49 will be deducted from future bills.

The money represents income taxes paid by Mr. Goodhue but charged by him as overhead expense in his bills which were duly passed and approved by the capitol commission, with a rubber stamp signature of the governor and signed by the secretary of the commission. Some of these were approved by the commission since Governor Bryan became chairman of the commission. By going back to the date of the original contract of employment of Mr. Goodhue the state auditor has accounted for a total of $6,597.78 paid by the state as income tax for Mr. Goodhue. Altho the charge for income tax was authorized by a firm of accountants employed in New York city to check Mr. Goodhue's claims Mr. Goodhue himself wrote the state auditor that he did not know whether it was a proper charge for overhead expense and he would willingly consent to the deductions proposed by the auditor. Deputy State Auditor Honza took the first active step toward making the deduction and Auditor Marsh followed up the matter to a conclusion. State Accountant Sommer said the income tax of Mr. Goodhue is not a proper charge against overhead expense of the architect's office. Under a contract with the architect the capitol commission agrees to pay expenses of the architect incurred in his New York office. The expenses are apportioned to Nebraska in proportion to the total amount of expense incurred by the architect on all the work performed in his office.

Mr. Goodhue has been charging a pro rata share of his income taxes to the capitol commission. Mr. Goodhue may attempt to recover his income tax from the federal government on the ground he is a state officer.

The contract between the commission and the architect gives the commission the choice of paying the architect 6 per cent of the cost of the building plus certain extras also providing for "plus cost" and "minus cost" charges on certain items, or a salary of $25,000 a year. It is now paying on a salary basis but can change to a per centage basis at any time it believes the latter cheaper.

A statement by State Auditor Marsh shows the total amount expended by the capitol commission up to November 1, 1923, is $1,621,188.12. Of this amount there has been paid to the architect $202,351.13, or about 12½ per cent of the cost up to that time.

It has been pointed out that the per centage cost on the start would naturally be high as the expenses of the architect for preparation of plans and for salaries would on the start be high in proportion to the amount of money actually put into the building pending the time awaiting excavation and other preliminary work on the building.

The state auditor insisted upon detailed statements of architect's expenses and the capitol commission being unable to furnish them, Deputy Auditor Honza took the matter up direct with Mr Goodhue and the latter consents to the deductions for his personal income tax.

The auditor's statement of the amount paid to Mr Goodhue up to November 1, 1923, is made up of the following items:

Architect's fees ..... $ 65,627.00

ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS APPROACH A POGROM

Berlin Outrages Against Hebrews Thruout Night and Day.

HUNDREDS FLEE IN PANIC

Bloody Wounds and Torn Garments Show Treatment.

MONARCHIST PUTSCH MENACE

Stresemann Advised That Thursday Is Zero Hour for Attempted Coup to Restore Ruler to the Throne.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Germany organized her forces today to beat a threatened monarchist putsch.

President Ebert's proclamation warning of ruthless suppression of any rising and calling for public support was answered by socialist leaders who said they could furnish several hundred thousand former soldiers for the defense of the republic.

Chancellor Stresemann was reported today to have been advised that Thursday would be the zero day for the putsch.

The government's call for support of the republic awakened realization today of the menace from the reactionary organizations along the Bavarian border and elsewhere.

Political parties prepared to issue a call today and tomorrow to all their followers to "be prepared" if the government calls.

They altered the call to one of preparedness instead of a direct call to arms because Chancellor Stresemann and Minister of Defense Gessler opposed the use of socialist "black, red and gold hundreds."

Anti-Jewish riots which at times threatened to develop into an actual pogrom, raged in Berlin thruout the night and continued today in many parts of the city.

At noon a police report said there had been 100 individual cases of plundering during the night and that such outrages were still going on, in a greater or lesser degree.

Hundreds of Jews, many of them with bloody wounds and torn garments to testify to their mistreatment, fled in panic from Berlin this morning. These refugees, stumbling and tottering, many wailing and others evidently dazed at what happened, joined in a great exodus, spurred on by the distant yelling of mobs.

Jewish "money bootleggers" were caught in the Tauenzienstrasse and when forced to undress, American dollars and English pounds were found hiden in their underwear, collars and hatbands.

At 3 p. m. police estimated the number of shops loted in the city at 1,000.

Attacks on Jews were being carried out by organized bands of ten to twenty youths.

Windows in many shops were smashed, stores were plundered, Jews were held up in the streets and their clothing ripped from them while the rioting was at its height.

Garment shops and bread and meat stores in the Jewish districts were looted.

The mobs, many of them apparently working under a sort of discipline, were especially active in the Grenadierstrasse and the Muenzstrasse, where pawnshops and thieves' "fences" are plentiful.

Galacians were singled out as objects of special vengeance.

The police were placed under a sharpened "alarm readiness" but the plunderings and beatings went on nevertheless.

The first mob outbreaks were suppressed by the police yesterday in the Grenadierstrasse region, but the crowds rallied again under cover of darkiness and resumed operations with renewed fury.

The neighborhood rang with the crash of shattered glass, hoarse yells screams and occasional shots. The windows of the Jewish shops were knocked in and clothing was carried into the street to be divided among the rioters.

Jewish-appearing persons were attacked by mobs in many parts of the city. Men were seized and stripped of all their garments except their shirts. Then they were beaten and sent running, bloody and half naked thru the streets in search of a hiding place.

In the west end crowds ranged the avenues long after midnight, stopping automobiles and searching them for Jews. In the center of the city persons suspected of being Jews were halted, roughly handled and tested regarding their "race purity."

The mobs gained many recruits from the unemployed, who assembled in crowds at many places to watch the rioting and to take a hand in it.

This morning fresh crowds were gathering near the Alexander railway station and the Jewish quarter, ready to make new attacks.

The police only fired once during the night, badly wounding one person.

Jews assert the riots were artificially worked up under the slogan, "The Jews bought the gold loans thus depriving the unemployed of their doles."

ZEHRUNG IS ON THE MEND

HOSPITAL AUTHORITIES STATE THAT HE WILL LIVE.

Apparent to Friends and Business Associates Here That He Has Been Much Sicker Man Than It Appeared.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Mayor Zehrung of Lincoln, Neb., who underwent an operation at the Alexian Brothers hospital here Saturday, was in "fair condition," today and will recover, hospital authorities said.

The above message coupled with suspicion voiced by friends and intimates of Mayor Zehrung, give proof that he has been a much sicker man than the people of Lincoln believed. Those friends who know him best, say that it is typically Mr. Zehrung, for him to make light of his condition in order to spare them any undue worry.

These friends know, however, that because of the mayor's long life in Lincoln, he would never have concented to a surgical operation to be performed by a surgeon outside of Lincoln unless there came a necessity to operate immediately to save his life.

Albert A. Jones, manager of the Zehrung Poster Advertising company, receivede a letter from Mrs. Zehrung Tuesday. It was written in the same cheerful vein as all letters to Lincoln friends. It stated that his condition is satisfactory. Between the lines of these communications, however, friends can read lines of their own. They know that Mrs. Zehrung has written in the tone that he would write were he able to hold a pen. Encouraging word from the hospital from those who are in on way muzzled by a desire to spare friends from worry, is taken at apr value and it is now believed certain that Mr. Zehrung will be with them again as soon as he can travel with safety.

Julius Dietrich, who was in Chicago last week, called on Mayor and Mrs. Zehrung at the hospital where the mayor is being cared for and found both of them anxious to get home. He called on Friday, at which time it was hoped that an operation would not be necessary. One day later it was decided upon and performed.

Mr. Dietrich said that while the mayor was a very sick man that he was in good spirits, anxious to get home and to his office, and more concerned about city affairs than he was about his own condition. Mayor Zehrung is at the Alexian Brothers hospital in Chicago.

Miss Maude Tyler, Mayor Zehrung's secretary, received a letter late Tuesday from Mrs. Zehrung. It was written Monday. The mayor suffered great pain Sunday and was visited by a number of chills. He is very thin but, according to the letter, his improvement is satisfactory.

BICYCLE RIDER INJURED

Roy Bloom, Eighteen, Struck by Automobile at Nineteenth and O, Painfully Hurt.

Roy Bloom, eighteen years old was painfully injured Tuesday afternoon while riding a bicycle at Nineteenth and O, when an automobile driven by Mrs. Lena Bowen of Waterville, Kas. ran into him. He was rushed to St. Elizabeth's hospital in Sturm & Schnell's ambulance. Witnesses said the driver of the car apparently became confused in attempting to avoid the bicycle. Bloom is a Postal Telegraph messenger. His head was badly cut and he was semi-conscious when picked up.

Hospital attendants said his skull was not fractured, tho he suffered a severe scalp wound. His shoulder and one hand were hurt.

MAN OF MINE IS ROAD BOSS

MR. COWGILL SAYS MR. DAYTON SHOULD TEND TO OWN.

Claims That He Does Not Offer to Advise Finance Head on Way He Shall Keep Books in Own Department.

"He's a man of mine" said Commissioner Cowgill Tuesday relative to his Monday dispute with Mr. Dayton over purchase of a car for Road Boss Overton which Mr. Overton said he does not want. The street department head learned Tuesday that, without his knowledge or consent, his chief assistant had received an increase in pay along with other city employes.

"News to me," he said, "It's my payroll and I gave no orders to change it. Any increase was without my authority. Mr. Dayton has nothing to say about my payroll. I do not attempt to tell him how to keep books or what kind of pen points to buy."

After talking with his secretary, Mr. Cowgill said:

"She put his salary up to $175 a month on instructions from the Clerk's office. I was not informed of it."

He speaks thus of what he terms uncalled for interference:

"The action in disapproving purchase of a motor car for Mr. Overton was not a legislative move. It was interference in the executive details of a city department. Mr. Dayton voted without hesitancy to spend $1,800 on a new car for the chief of police. This indicates to me that the motive is not a desire to save the taxpayers money?"

Mr. Cowgill still maintains that Overton should have a car whether he wants it or not.

"He has driven his car three years and has covered approximately 16,000 miles. The item of upkeep is large. I proposed a new car—a city car—for him for two reasons: It would mean economy in the long run, and I very much dislike the practice of public maintenance of private cars. Cars used in the city's business should be properly labeled so that there may be no question or doubt as to responsibility."

Asked what he proposes to do in regard to purchase of two other cars on which bids were received, he said:

"I have cancelled them. I do not care to take chances on a repetition of Monday's unpleasant dispute."

He said that a junior building inspector employed by him by authority of the budget has been relieved. The man worked three weeks. It was found that he was not exactly fitted for the job.

"I shall look for the right man," said Mr. Cowgill. "We paid the one we employed at the rate of $100 a month. I received some value from his services."

POISON IN CANNED GOODS

Shumway Says Botulinus Appears in Some Vegetables But Not in Fruits or Tomatoes.

In regard to the poison found in home canned, unheated green beans which caused the death of three persons in a family at Morrill, Deputy Secretary Shumway of the Nebraska department of agriculture said:

"So many inquiries are coming in relative to the botulinus poisoning at Morrill, it is important the public should know that this occurs only in vegetables, so far as any American record is concerned. Europe has had some cases of its occurring in canned meats.

"This poison is so rare that it is difficult to say whether it is more likely to occur in cold packs or not. This is the only case recorded occurring in Nebraska. It has been known to occur and not be perceptible to sight or smell. Acid or sugar stops the growth and so it does not occur in fruits or tomatoes. It may occur even tho the vegetables are subject to heat or cooking before being put in jars.

"The one safe way of preventing the poison from beans, corn, peas and the like is to thoroly cook on removing from the can, before eating. This destroys the toxin."

SUE POWER COMPANY FOR WEISS' DEATH

Administrator of Clay County Estate Asks Federal Court to Award $20,000 Damages.

Herman Klopp, administrator of the estate of Henry Otto Weiss, deceased, brought suit in federal court Tuesday against the M. M. Johnson company of Clay county to recover, $20,000 damages for the death of Mr. Weiss. The company is charged with negligence in failing to guard the machinery in its power plant and to repair a high speed engine known to be defective.

Henry O. Weiss was fatally injured October 8, 1922, when a belt caught his clothing and hurled him to the floor. He was climbing between the planes of the belt while the engine was not running, the petition says, and the lower part was protected in its groove by a wooden platform. The engine being defective because of a leaky throttle valve, could not be stopped in the regular method and had to be halted on dead center by means of a piece of 2x4. It had been so stopped when Mr. Weiss climbed thru, the administrator says, and someone started the engine while he was so engaged, with the result that he was caught in the revolving belt.

It is asserted that Weiss had a right to be where he was, and that by his death his parents were deprived of his earnings and care, which they might have expected to enjoy for many years. The suit is brought in federal court because the plaintiff lives in Illinois and the defendants in Nebraska. Attorneys for Mr. Klopp are Thomas J. Dredla and G. E. Hager. The defendants are Harry H. Johnson, Mrs. M. M. Johnson and Ottie Johnson, doing business in Clay county as the M. M. Johnson company, a partnership.

CLUB HOLDS A MYSTERY

Employe May Have Committed Suicide Following Missing Letters Episode.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—New York's "club mystery," involving a member of the Crescent Athletic club of Brooklyn, several women, a club employe and various "missing letters" was developing all the properties of the melodrama thrillers today as police continued their investigation into "what became of Richard Dieters."

Dieters, the missing employe, was night telephone operator at the Crescent club of which E. M. Jeffe, assistant sales manager of the Brooklyn Edison company, is a prominent member.

The telephone operator has been missing since Saturday. Early Sunday his cap and coat were found on the promenade of Manhattan bridge and his wife expressed fear he had committed suicide because he was being persecuted for alleged possession of missing letters.

The letters, Mrs. Dieters explained, were written to a club member, estranged from his wife, by a Philadelphia woman, and Dieters was accused of having pieced them together after they had been picked from one of the club's wastebaskets.

After interviewing most of the principals in the case, District Attorney Dodd, in charge of the investigation, said he did not believe Dieters had attempted to use the letters for blackmail purposes and that he had found no reason why the missing employe should want to commit suicide.

Police believe Dieters was frightened over trouble caused by his alleged possession of the letters and will come home to his wife and children as soon as he finds he really hasn't done anything wrong.

One of the Season's Best Plays. "The First Year," Coming to the Orpheum Friday and Saturday.

John Golden will send to the Orpheum Friday, Saturday and Saturday matinee of this week, "The First Year," the hilarious comedy hit which rolled up more than seven hundred consecutive performances in New York. Described as a comic tragedy of married life, "The First Year" sets forth so humanly and at the same time so humorously the vicissitudes of that usually stormy period closely following the honeymoon, as to send audiences almost into hysterics. The splendid cast which the critics termed "flawless," will be seen here. This includes Scott Welsh, Patricia O'Hearn, John W. Ransone, Ray L. Royce, Elizabeth Dunne, Jane Ellison, Joseph Gary, Alan Devitt and Pauline Moxon.

Ingram's Photoplay Scores Big Success at the Rialto.

Rex Ingram has captured in a magnificent fashion the romantic and exotic spirit of the South seas in his latest production, "Where the Pavement Ends." The story tells how love came into the life of the lonely, beautiful daughter of a South seas missionary. And it is romance supreme, amid the beauty and strangeness of the leisurely tropics where love and hate burn with consuming flame.

Special Children's Matinee for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Wednesday and Thursday at 4 O'clock.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is, in many respects, one of the most remarkable plays ever produced, and the fact it has made its annual tour for many years and has never failed to play to capacity houses, demonstrates that there is a depth of feeling for Harriet Beecher Stowe's great work that cannot be estimated. Aside from the sentimental angle, the play is one of great historical value. As long as there are children in this country, Uncle Tom's Cabin is assured of success. A special matinee will be given for school children Wednesday and Thursday at 4 p. m., admission 20 cents, adults 40 cents; these prices include war tax.

Enjoyable Comedy Bill at the Liberty.

If you want to enjoy a good laugh and forget life's worries, go to the Liberty today or Wednesday and see the standard offerings of Zuhn and Dreis, a duo of eccentric funsters; Bert Kay and associate players in an original comedy in one set, "Doubt"; and the novelty presented by Europe's famous laugh producers, Laila Seibini & Albert. The Hickey-Hart Revue is a clever company of versatile entertainers who delight both eye and ear and Allegro, a violinist that is different.

TO PROBE VICE CONDITIONS

Polk County Grand Jury to Investigate Charges of Preacher.

DES MOINES, Nov. 6.—Vice conditions in Des Moines alleged by the Des Moines ministerial association to be growing worse will be investigated by the Polk county grand jury here today.

Rev. N. C. Carpenter, Chief of Police John Hammond and former Chief of Police Saunders will be asked by the jury probing conditions to substantiate sensational charges of "deplorable conditions" given out by the three men in recent weeks.

The grand jury probe comes on the heels of the decision to appoint a vice squad by Des Moines ministers yesterday at a meeting with Chief of Police Hammond.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter will appear before the jury first to tell what he knows of week-end "love nests" which he has declared in sermons to abound in the city.

College co-eds, he said, are participants in these parties.

Hammond and Saunders will follow Carpenter in revealing alleged conditions.

FLEECED OUT OF $9,500

New Witness Produced in Activities of Two Men Under Arrest in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—A new witness, who claims he was fleeced out of $9,500, has been produced in the probe of activities of T. J. Jones, Waukegan, Ill., and John Singleton, New York, held for investigation in connection with alleged oil swindling deals, police said today.

Alvin E. Jones, Kenosha, Wis., told authorities that the two men had induced him to buy 9,500 shares of Acme petroleum stock at $1 a share, with the prospect of selling at $2. They took his money and never came back, Jones said.

T. J. Jones and Singleton were arrested a few days ago pending police investigation of the sale of oil stock in Davenport, Ia., and Oklahoma. A list containing eight or ten names of prominent business men thruout the country was found.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Ed J. Barras, son of C. F. Barras of Lincoln, had fallen twenty-five feet from a building at Valley City, Mexico and was seriously hurt.

Fireman John Curran was mourning the loss of his wedding suit of clothes. Some thief had entered the house.

The fire department was fast bringing to completion the new combination hose wagon and chemical which the council authorized the members to construct.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Taylor of 2931 P street met with a serious accident when their carriage was broken by a sudden jar in front of the Plymouth Congregational church. They were starting to the penitentiary where they did missionary work.

Hermann, the [illegible] of hand performer, was one of the Funke theater attractions.

Governor Holcomb sent a telegram to the Nebraska boys at Manila asking for an expression on the question of being mustered out. The boys marched past the colonel's windows and sang "Home Sweet Home" as their answer.

POWER VESSEL FLOUNDERS

WASHINGTON, N. [illegible], Nov. 6.—The [illegible] power vessel, Sterling, foundered off Hampton point early today according to report here.

The crew escaped from the boat just before the Sterling went down, according to advices.

HOG THIEVES NOT EXTINCT

BANDS OF INDIANS AND WHITES OPERATE IN KNOX.

Sheriff Kellogg Gives Black Eye to Story That He Puts Entire Time in Rounding Up Booze Venders.

Hog and cattle stealing, a business which flourished in the early days on the Nebraska prairies, is not extinct. The pockets and gulches and canyons up along the northern boundary in Knox county are full of them, or were until Sheriff Kellogg, assisted by his own men and by state officers, routed them out. And in doing so the Knox county sheriff put a crimp in the story coming from his own locality and published in an Omaha paper to the effect that he could see no further than a bootlegger.

Nine men, whites and Sioux Indians, have been convicted during this term of the Knox county district court for hog and cattle "rustlin'." Four were delivered at the penitentiary by the sheriff and his special deputy, Claud Waitermire, late Monday. One came a short time ago and four are in the Knox county jail awaiting room at the state prison. Those of the Monday delivery:

Bud Orr, hog stealing, one to three years.

George Bouillard, Sioux Indian, stealing and butchering cattle, one to five years.

Oliver Trudell, Sioux Indian, stealing and butchering, one to five years.

Arthur Love, stealing sugar, one year.

The rugged country back from the Missouri river in Knox is an ideal hiding place for outlaw bands. It is estimated that until the recent raid there were from fifty to a hundred men in the canyons. One band recently drove off seventeen head of hogs from one farm. Cattle and hogs are butchered and the outlaws sell the meat.

The rough country to the north also furnishes a haven for moonshiners. Within the past sixty days there have been thirty-four convictions in Knox county for liquor violations. The Sioux have learned from the whites of quick money returns from booze traffic. Some of them make it. Others of them are heavy users.

Five South Dakota coon hunters with three coon dogs slipped down into Knox county the other day and captured one coon. It cost them something like $175. They were fined $25 each and costs for hunting without license.

Frank Lopez, convicted in Lancaster county of a statutory offense and sentenced to serve twenty years flat, registered at the penitentiary Tuesday morning.

PROBLEM OF UNEMPLOYED.

GENEVA.—(By Mail.)—That the world is steadily fighting its way back to "normalcy" is indicated by the latest statistics gathered by the international labor bureau on unemployment. A few months ago the monthly statistics of the international labor bureau indicated that possibly the turning point had been reached. This indication has now been fully confirmed by later statistics, and despite occasional variations, the problem of unemployment may now be regarded as marching definitely toward normalcy.

FIND BURIED TREASURE.

AMSTERDAM.—(By Mail.)—The family named Faan, who have lived in a hovel-like cottage near here for four generations, have been begging on the streets of Amsterdam. The latest generation, a sister and two brothers, have been in a sorry plight. Just as they were about to give up the struggle one of the brothers unwittingly opened a recess in the wall where he found 300,000 francs. The savings of the great-grandfather had been visited upon the third generation.

The Australian cabinet issued an appeal to all fit of military age to enroll as special constables.

WANTED—A BEAU

The Story of a Lonely Girl
(Copyright, 1923.)

BY FAY STEVENSON.

Carmen.

Virginia rolled up the luxurious fur collar of her gray opera cape and caught up the long side pieces of her dainty cerise gown as she and Stanley Brown entered the Metropolitan opera house. It was wonderful to go to the opera house with one's first escort!

They occupied orchestra seats and were in plenty of time to watch the rest of the music lovers arrive. Virginia took particular interest in the coiffures of the ladies near her. The men, too, all looked distinguished and important in their evening clothes. She took a side peep at Stanley. She had always admired him in tweeds and business suits but now he was simply adorable.

Stanley leaned toward her and began to whisper about Ritzi Duncan. Everything he said went to her head and made her dizzy. She didn't care how much he talked about Ritzi and her charms, he was talking to her anyway! She had an escort and every one in back of them would whisper about that girl with the blonde bobbed hair and the handsome young man.

She answered him as sweetly as if he were paying her countless compliments. She tossed her head high and laughed lightly every time he told her about some of Ritzi's clever capers. When he whispered, "Ritzi would love this music, she used to scarcely breathe when a bit of music appealed to her," Virginia tried to stop breathing and look as if she too were moved beyond words.

At last it was over. The people, the music, the lights, the delicate perfume. She was standing in the hall of her apartment and Stanley Brown was about to bid her good-night.

She looked into his eyes and saw an unusual light there. "I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed the evening, Miss Witherbee," he was saying. "I don't know any one to whom I can talk this way about Ritzi. It's wonderful to find a sympathetic girl. Good-night!"

Virginia found her latch key and stumbled blindly into her own room. She switched on the lights and looked at herself in the mirror for a long time. Her face was flushed with the evening's adventure, her eyes sparkled with youth and health and her slick bobbed hair was alluring. She was twice as pretty as Ritzi and she knew it. Why then did Stanley Brown spend all his evening talking about this other girl? Why did Oswald Darnton and Billy Vedder ignore her?

In her heart Virginia began to wonder how many girls in New York City were in just her predicament.

"There must be something lacking in us," she whispered to herself. "These other girls know how to take the limelight and bask in it."

Stanley Brown's interesting, expressive face appeared before her. She heard his, "It's wonderful to find a sympathetic girl," again, and knew that therein lay her opportunity. She would keep on being sympathetic and hear the rest of his talk about Ritzi!

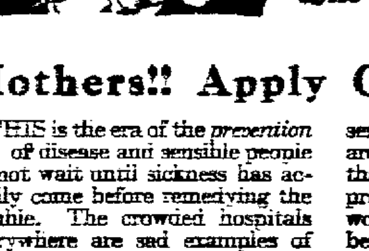

Surely it was better to attend the opera and go about town with Stanley Brown even if one had to listen to praises heaped upon another's head than to sit at home alone. But she wanted Oswald Darnton and Billy Vedder to become attentive. She wanted to be popular and have so many engagements that she had to turn them down.

It seemed a good omen the next morning to find a long, thick gray envelope addressed to her in purple ink at the breakfast table.

Tomorrow—The Purple Letter.

SEEKING AIX-LA-CHAPELLE

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Herr Matthes, "president of the Rhineland republic," has announced unofficially the intention of the republicans of retaking Aix-La-Chappelle, a dispatch from Cologne said today.

A single teaspoonful of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Will restore good humor

Mothers!! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. Ida Williamson of 1637 Pine St., Long Beach, Cal. and Mrs. Lou Brawley of Self, Ark., never have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Syrup Pepsin.

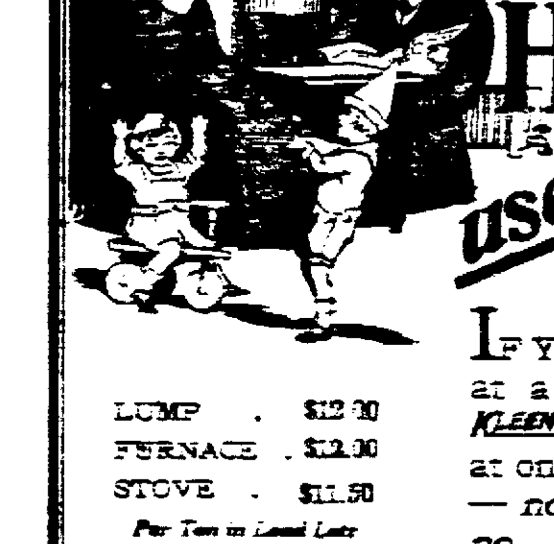

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying—

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

ECKHARDT IS PUT ON STAND

FIRST WITNESS IN TRIAL OF BIG LIBEL SUIT.

Former Treasurer of U. S. Grain Growers Tells History of the Grain Marketing Experiment.

Events leading up to the organization of the U. S. grain growers were related in detail Monday afternoon by W. G. Eckhardt, first treasurer of that corporation, when he took the witness stand as the first witness in the trial of his $70,000 libel suit again the Nebraska farm bureau federation and Prof. H. Clyde Filley of the state agricultural college. Mr. Eckhardt contends that he was injured by the bureau's publication, in its organ. The farm bureau, of Professor Filley's report of the U. S. grain growers' 1922 convention at Chicago. The defendants say the report was made without malice, simply for the information of Nebraska farm bureau members, who had a right to know what had taken place.

Former Governor Burke of North Dakota, who made the opening statement to the jury in behaf of the plaintiff, read part of the article in question, and said it charged Mr. Eckhardt with responsibility for the extravagant and unnecessary office rental expenditure of the corporation, the extremely high salaries paid its officers and its expensive service. He said it also charged him with not being safe to trust with the corporation's money when more than 100,000,000 bushels of grain was to be marketed. He said Professor Filley's report was published after the convention was over and Mr. Eckhardt already out of office, too late to make any difference in the outcome, hence it was maliciously written. As a matter of fact, according to Governor Burke, Mr. Eckhardt had opposed the renting of a whole floor in a Chicago office building, and also the high salaries first fixed, saving the figures would not look well to the farmers, and that he wanted no saary himself, as he was still in the employ of the Illinois agricultural association. On the other hand, he said the evidence would show that C. H. Gustafson, president of the corporation, said, "It's up to you boys to fix salaries, but I've been offered more than the $15,000 offered me here."

Harry L. Keefe of Walthill, counsel for the Nebraska farm bureau federation, repeated some of Governor Burke's remarks about Mr. Eckhardt's previous activities as advisor to the farmers of Illinois, and added that he had become known as a man possessed of a great vision, but so wrapped up in it that he lost sight of obstacles, and was not practical in his views. His plan for the U. S. grain growers, Mr. Keefe said, included not alone grain marketing machinery, but the purchase of great terminal elevators, coal mines, the erection of huge mills, possessing plants, the building of boats to export surplus grain, and the manufacture of alcohol or motive purposes.

On this vision, Mr. Keefe said, the committee of seventeen split after it was already divided on the subject of compulsory pooling. One faction was for staying within its means and conducting its business conservatively. The other, or radical group, shared Mr. Eckhardt's views and was led by him, by C. H. Hyde of Oklahoma and U. L. Burdick of North Dakota. It was this group, the defendant will endeavor to show, and not Mr. Eckhardt, that is charged with extravagance and huge unnecessary expenditures, and it was C. H. Gustafson who stood for low salaries and expenses and conservative policies, and succeeded in having salaries reduced.

All this time, and thruout the formative period of the U. S. grain growers, Mr. Keefe said, the Farm Bureau Review published reports of its activities in practically every issue, because it was the American farm bureau federation that fostered the committee of seventeen and thru it the U. S. grain growers, and farm bureau men in Nebraska wanted to know what was going on. Mr. Filley's report, written at the request of the publisher, was part of this service to the Review's readers.

Mr. Eckhardt reiterated much that his counsel had said, and went into detail as to his own activities during and before the formation of the grain growers. From 1905 to 1921 he was agronomy instructor in the Illinois agricultural college, and on the experiment station staff, and then became agricutural advisor of DeKalb county, a position corresponding to county agent in Nebraska. The county paid him $4,000 at first, then $6,000 a year, and while in its service he developed a seed business he said was still flourishing, for the purpose of getting pure seed corn for the farmers. He handled all the money in this business, which of late years amounted to $100,000 a year.

In the spring of 1920 the Illinois agricultural association, the state farm bureau organization, paid him $10,000 to give two-thirds of his time to directing its grain marketing, and raised his salary to $15,000 when he gave the business his whole time. Meanwhile he had served thru the war as state seed corn administrator, being appointed by Governor Lowden. The governor is to be a witness for him.

DANCE RECITAL WELL RECEIVED

Miss Gustin and Her Pupils Please Woman's Club Audience—Club Planning Many Activities.

Miss Donna Gustin and her pupils appeared in a dance recital entitled "A Circus Ballet" Monday afternoon before the Lincoln Woman's club. An original stage setting which depicted the inside of a circus tent, was combined with artistic lighting effects and clever costumes. The performance was given both in the afternoon and evening in order that the husbands might be present as guests. The grown-ups were quite overshadowed by the group of wee little tots, two and three years old, dressed to represent red lollypops, who sang and danced for the amusement of the audience.

At the business meeting which preceded the program Mrs. Alona C. Little gave a report of the state convention of the federation of women's clubs held at Beatrice. The club endorsed a pledge of twenty-five dollars made at the convention by Mrs. W. W. Whitfield in behalf of the Lincoln Woman's club toward the scholarship fund.

Mrs. W. T. Staver announced the birthday luncheon which will be given November 17 at the chamber of commerce on the twenty-ninth anniversary of the club. At that time the mortgage on the club property will be burned by Mrs. Whitfield. Mrs. Allen Field will be toastmistress and toasts will be given by Mrs. J. C. Harpham, during whose presidency the building fund was started, and Mrs. George Chatburn, who was president of the club at the time the building site was purchased.

A silver offering was taken for the child welfare committee.

A letter was read from Miss Phoebe Elliott, the first president of the Lincoln Woman's club.

At the board meeting which was held at 1:15 in Faculty hall the board adopted a recommendation presented by Mrs. E. S. Franklin endorsing a world peace and will cooperate with other organizations in making plans to observe world court week. New wreaths will be placed on the boulders in Memorial avenue on Armistice day and the board decided to complete a pledge of one hundred dollars to the Federated Woman's club home at Washington, D. C.

Guests of the club were Miss Romona Johns, Mrs. E. E. Green, Weeping Water; Mrs. F. E. Harper, Belden; Mrs. E. E. Woods, Mrs. J. P. Crouse, Mrs. Ed Jeary, Seward; Mrs. J. R. Corey, Hastings; Miss Alice Purcell, Broken Bow; Miss Fannis Knox, Detroit; Miss Nellie Coleman, Humboldt; Miss Blanch Davis, Hedrick, Ia.; Mrs. VanDecar, Ord; Mrs. Turk, Collinsville, Ill.; Mrs. L. B. Smutz, St. Louis; Mrs. Crandall, North Loup; Mrs. Warren, Mrs. R. S. Mallony, San Francisco; Mrs. John Cline, Creston, Ia.; Miss Emma Zimmerman, Holdrege.

MERE MENTION

A Ford coupe driven by Rose Herrick, 1121 E, was turned over when hit by an auto driven by John Graft, of Firth, Neb., at 1:30 p. m. Monday. The accident occured at Twelfth and M. The driver narrowly escaped injury. Glass of the coupe was shattered.

Maude Safford was granted a decree of divorce from John R. Safford by District Judge Morning, Monday afternoon on the grounds of non-support and abandonment. The couple were married in Nokomis, Ill., May, 28, 1912. There are two children whose custody is given to the mother. The division of property was settled outside of court.

A roof fire at the home of E. E. Wolfe, 2010 F, did considerable damage Monday afternoon. Firemen made a run there at 2:44 p. m. and extinguished the flames. Sparks from a chimney caused the blaze, according to Fire Chief Hansen. The flames caused damage in the attic Chemicals were used to a great extent. A large hole was burned in one side of the roof.

Dorthy Mayes, six year old, 3160 W, anstained slight bruises about th body and knees when hit by an auto as she was crossing the street near Twenty-seventh and Vine at 4 p. m. Monday. She crawled out from under the car which immediately stopped. The car is a Ford truck and was being driven by J. Conners, 211 North Twenty-first, according to Police Officer Edwards. The little girl was taken to her home by the officer. E. M. Kennedy was riding in the truck with Mr. Conners.

HELD ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Sebastiano Vinciquera Is Named With Paul Haning in Liquor Conspiracy Complaint.

Sebastiano Vinciquera waived a preliminary hearing before United State Commissioner Whitmore Monday afternoon and was committed to jail in default of $3,000 bond. He was named with Paul W. Haning in a liquor conspiracy charge, growing out of his arrest early Sunday morning in the alley back of Haning's home. The latter escaped, but Vinciquera was haled into justice court and fined $100, which he paid.

Vinciquera, who is the husband of Louise, Omaha's self styled bootleg queen, told District Attorney Stewart that he and Paul Haning drove down from Omaha late Sunday night with six gallons of hooch and three empty five gallon jugs, all the property of Haning. Where he got them, Vinciquera said he did not know. State and federal officers were watching the Haning place on Sumner street, and when the Nash roadster drew up in the alley beside the Haning barn, state officers drove up and called on the occupants to surrender. Haning ran west up the alley and got away. Vinciquera pulled a .38 revolver but was disarmed.

Paul Haning is a brother of Earl C. Haning, lately dismissed form the federal prohibition service after being arrested with Louise Vinciquera on bootlegging charges.

Rupture Not Dangerous

The Real Danger Is Not from the Rupture Itself, But from the Hard Pads and the Pressure of the Spring of the Usual Style of Truss.

The Brooks Appliance Is the Only Strictly Modern and Entirely Comfortable Way of Holding a Rupture.

SENT ON FREE TRIAL

This Man Is Ruptured Yet Plays Football Safely—Because He Uses A BROOKS APPLIANCE

Just because you are unfortunate in being ruptured is no good reason why you should not freely engage in every form of athletic sport, dancing, skating and all amusements.

A Brooks Appliance will hold firmly yet with perfect comfort at all times and under all conditions. There are no hard pads nor springs of any kind about a Brooks Appliance. A soft, pliable rubber air cushion is so shaped as to firmly cling to the body, and hold the rupture back just as you would do with the pressure of your hand.

The percentage of permanent cures that the Brooks Appliance makes is astonishingly great. Over 21,000 people—all ages, men, women and children, new cases and old—have given written testimony of cures.

A FREE TRIAL is always allowed. Do not be deceived by counterfeits and so-called "Brooks Model." Look always for the trade mark and signature of C. E. Brooks in gold upon every genuine Appliance.

The success of the Brooks is due to a secret that truss makers have never discovered, so shun imitations if you expect satisfaction.

Look

And note the prettier teeth you see everywhere today

Note how many teeth now glisten where dainty people gather. Mark what added beauty those whiter teeth convey.

Millions now clean teeth in a new way. They combat the film. Accept this test and learn how much that method means to you.

Film a dingy coat

You feel on teeth a viscous film. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats which cloud the beauty of the teeth.

But film does more. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old-way methods, very few escaped the film-caused troubles.

The modern way

Dental science has found two effective ways to fight that film, and has amply proved them. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

A new-type tooth paste was created to apply these methods daily. The name is Pepsodent. Now leading dentists the world over advise it, and careful people of some 50 nations use it.

Twill surprise you

Pepsodent brings these whiter, cleaner, safer teeth in natural ways, without any harmful scouring.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Those are Nature's agents for fighting acids and digesting starch deposits. Pepsodent gives them a manifold effect, while old ways reduced their power.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

BLINDFOLD IS BEING MADE

HAYWARD THOMPSON'S EYES TO BE HEAVILY COVERED.

Man of Dual Mind to Run Power Sewing Machine at Herpolsheimer's While Blindfolded.

The blindfold that will be used to obscure the vision of Hayward Thompson during his exhibition the latter part of this week is to be constructed by the H. Herpolsheimer Co. on one of the New Home sewing machines for which the store are agents. It consists of ten thicknesses of black silk of sufficient length and breadth to cover the entire face and ears. It will be fastened in the back with elastic clips, and rubber bands will be placed over the bandage and under the nose to preclude the possibility of any light from penetrating after it is applied. The bandage will be on exhibition in the corner window of Herpolsheimer's store, Twelfth and N.

During the course of Thompson's drive he will stop and enter the Herpolsheimer Co., walk htru the store and proceed to the ladies' cloak and wrap department. Here he will endeavor to operate one of the new model electric sewing machines under the handicap of the blindfold. A treat will be in store for those who witness this remarkable exhibition and the public is invited to attend. Operating every attachment on this machine while deprived of normal vision will surely create considerable comment among the home-sewers and dressmakers of Lincoln.

Thompson is in prime condition for his performance and promises to gave the spectators a thrill a minute. Record crowds are anticipated. Announcement of the exact date and time of the drive will be carried in the Journal the day before the drive. All will be given ample time to arrange to witness his performance. The complete route of the drive, giving the starting time and his various stops, will enable all to be on hand. Much comment is goin gthe rounds concerning the man's ability and if Thompson performs here as he has in other cities, the streets will be jammed with eager spectators.

Dr. S. L. Ashworth, local chiropractor, who is looking after Thompson's physical condition tells the story of the man's amazing prediction in connection with the Argonaut mine disaster in Jackson, Cal., in September, 1922. Thompson was called by the mine officials to enter the Kennedy shaft, eight days prior to the unsealing of the mine and give his deductions. The story will be told in tomorrow's issue.

Hayward Thompson was a busy man yesterday. The afternoon found him making time over the streets in his new Buick. The snappy lines of his car and the cards on the sides attracted unusual attention. He visited with Mr. C. C. Beck, of the Central Tire and Repair company, and arranged to purchase a new set of Miller "geared to the road" tires. During his drive he will arrange to direct the tire change. He also filled up with "high speed" gas and oil and has expressed his desire to use the gas while in Lincoln. He will stop at several of the filling stations that handle these products during his drive. The electrical equipment of his Buick was pronounced perfect by Mr. Pinney of Pinney's garage. Exide distributors. The State Oil company, distributors of "high speed" oil and gas were naturally well pleased when Thompson specified their products and have arranged to stage an interesting exhibition in connection with Thompson's blind drive. The date will be announced later.

AUTO NOT SWISS KING.

GENEVA.—(By Mail.)—Altho the automobile may be king in the United States, its name comes much nearer being "mud" in Switzerland.

Heretofore automobiles, absolutely prohibited from ever entering the sovereign precincts of the canton of Grisons, are now allowed by referendum vote to enter, provided they get out as quickly as possible and provided they don't leave the highway which conducts them in the straightest line possible to the Julier pass and the Italian frontier.

MRS. HICKEY SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Worcester, Mass. — "I had some trouble caused by a female weakness and got so rundown and weak from it that I could hardly stand or walk across the floor. The doctor gave me all kinds of pills, but nothing helped me. I happened to meet a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I thought I would try it. After taking it a week I began to improve, and now I feel fine and am doing all of my housework, including washing, sewing and house cleaning. I have recommended your medicine to my friends, and I am willing for you to use this letter as a testimonial, as I would like to help any one suffering the way I did from such a weakness."—Mrs. DELIA HICKEY, 4 S. Ludlow St., Worcester, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. This book contains valuable information.

LITTLE DOTTY SEES A QUEER BUTCHER SHOP.

DOTTY really surprised her mama one morning by not frowning and fussing when she was asked to run down to the butcher shop. Instead, she put on her little blue bonnet, picked up her basket and started off down the road all smiles.

She hadn't gone far when she spied her little elfin friend, Happy Giggles, sitting on a big stone at the side of the road, his face all smiles.

"You know why I'm sitting here?" he asked, when Dotty came up to his side. Dotty shook her head and laughed. "Because this is the first time I can remember your doing an errand willingly. I see you have not forgotten—"

"What you told me about shortening the way," laughed Dotty. "Grumbling makes it twice as long, so I started out humming when I left home. Where are you going, Happy Giggles? Were you waiting for me?"

"Why Do You Hang Things Up?"

"Wait a second," laughed the elfin, hopping down from the big stone. "I was on my way to a meat shop, when I heard you coming. As to your second question, I certainly was waiting for you. I just wondered whether you would like to see a queer market I found the other day."

Of course Dotty wished to see it, and without any questions, she took Happy Giggles' hand.

Instead of following the big road, Happy Giggles cut off across the meadows toward the woods. There on a tree all covered with thorns, sat a dear little gray bird.

Happy Giggles called him, and when he sailed down to the grasses, he introduced him to Dotty as Mr. Shrike.

"I just wondered if you still kept a butcher shop," Happy Giggles asked him.

Mr. Shrike laughed and nodded his head. He was about the size of a robin red breast, and across his forehead, way back of his eyes, ran a jet band of feathers that made Dotty think of a mask.

"Surely, I do," he chirped merrily. "But I doubt whether your friend here will like the meats I carry. Come and look them over."

He flew up into the thorny tree, Happy Giggles and Dotty following him with the aid of the elfin's magic.

There on the thorns surrounding his home were all of Mr. Shrike's meats. Dotty couldn't help laugh when she spied them.

On one thorn, hung a dead beetle, on another, two big bees, a mouse dangled from another, while several June-bugs hung on other thorns.

"So this is your butcher shop?" Dotty laughed. "No, you're right. I don't think I'd c- for any of your meats. But, tell me, why do you hang things up this wa-? Do you sell them to the other birds?"

"Gracious no!" laughed Mr. Shrike, merrily. "This is my own private meat store. I go out hunting and bring hom my spoil, instead of eating it by the way. Here I can take my time and eat when I'm hungry. It saves a lot of trouble. Some days hunting is good, especially after a rain. Then I lay away food for the days when it is scarce. No, it's all for my wife and me."

"Maybe next time, Mr. Butcher, you'll have something more to our liking," laughed Happy Giggles, and bidding Mr. Shrike goodby, he and Dotty hurried on to the real butcher shop.

WORDS of WISE MEN

Nothing is so unreasonable and inconsistent as fortune.

One can never believe that a knowledge of future events would be an advantage to us.

Nobody looks at what is immediately before him—we are employed in gazing at the stars.

In extraordinary events ignorance of their cause produces astonishment.

We must not say that every mistake is a foolish one.

There should be no end to the search for truth, other than the finding it.

• • •

What we call pleasure is the absence of all pain.

• • •

Through ignorance of what is good and what is bad, the life of man is greatly perplexed.

When we know the nature of things we are freed rom superstition.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Lillian's Viewpoint Comforted Madge.

AT my tempestuous outburst, Lillian looked at me steadily, and there was that in her kind eyes which calmed me. There was not only wisdom in those eyes, but suffering also and the authority which is born of both. I felt suddenly young and inexperienced beside her.

"From the standpoint of strict justice," she said slowly at last, "there is no reason in the world why you should 'trouble yourself to make the best of Dicky's flirtation with another woman.'" She repeated my words colorlessly, without stressing any one of them, but I winced as if she had weighted them with irony. "But—would you be happier if you didn't make the best of it? If you would, I should advise you to make a row or cut loose from Dicky altogether. At that, those two courses mean the same thing eventually, you know."

Yes, I did know. I acknowledged that as I shrank involuntarily from the picture she had limned for me with so few strokes. Dicky might indulge in futile rages, as evanescent as they were tempestuous, but something within me, a knowledge of my Peter Pan born of my love for him, told me that if I descended to the jealous raging fury over his derelictions which many women would have meted out to him, he might accept the first one as a proof of my love for him, but it would be the beginning of the end for us both.

Nothing Save Annoyance.

But it was the alternative Lillian had named which stripped the futile anger from me, leaving only the stark realization of what life would mean to me were I to "cut loose from Dicky altogether." I knew, of course, that if ever I became convinced of his ceasing to care for me, or of his allegiance to another woman, I should find pride and courage from somewhere to go out of his life altogether. Deep in my heart, however, although often clouded over by jealous fear, lay the consciousness that Lillian was right when she said that Dicky was essentially loyal to me, and that I had nothing save annoyance to fear from his occasional digressions.

It was a long minute before I could speak. Then I looked gratefully at Lillian, and murmured a wan "thank you," which brought her suddenly across the room to my chair. She bent and kissed me warmly, rested her hand upon my shoulder for an instant and went back to her seat.

"I know," she said, comprehendingly. "Nobody better. It's undiluted—perdition—for women whichever way you look at it. The person who first emitted the classic, 'You neither can live with 'em nor without 'em,' should be credited with saying a dozen mouthfuls instead of one."

She stooped to the tiny wood box, and laid another stick upon the fire. Something in her words, and the look upon her face swerved me sharply. Pushing Dicky and his transgressions firmly into an unused chamber of my brain and turning the key upon them, I furtively studied my friend's face, finding etched upon it lines of pain which either she had been able to mask cleverly when she entered the apartment, or which I had been too selfishly absorbed to notice.

Romance After Tragedy.

I had suspected for some time that her affair with the famous artist, Robert Savarin—the idyllic romance which had begun in Lillian's young girlhood, and had been resumed after years of tragedy had saddened both their lives—was not going smoothly. No one who saw them could doubt their deep love for each other, but ever since the memorable day at his sister's, when Robert had betrayed his dislike for Lillian's government work, and the jealousy that was in him against any personable man with whom that work associated her, I had guessed that Lillian was weighing very carefully the possibilities—and probabilities—of unhappiness to them both should she link her life to his. Was it possible that she finally had severed definitely the tie between them? Her letter had told me that Robert and his sister were about to start for Europe, and that she and Marion were cutting short their visit on that account. I had wondered at the sudden decision, so unlike Robert Savarin's dreamy deliberations. Did it mean that the two had come to the parting of the ways?

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
We are two girls in our teens, who would like some advice. Two fine young men came to visit our friend's home and we were introduced to them.

While they were here they went places with us and seemed to enjoy our company. They asked for pictures of this place, but we did not have any at the time. We want to know whether it would be all right for us to send the pictures to them.

FRECKLES AND FROWNS.

FRECKLES AND FROWNS: It would be quite all right for you to send the pictures to the young men with a dignified little note.

MAKE THEM MATCH, BY ALL MEANS.

EDNA—Awfully good of you to admire my hand-knitted scarf, old dear. I had a long search before I found one to match my dress. You know, making them match is the last cry of fashion. If I hadn't been so energetic I would have taken one in printed crepe de Chine with plain border—but then I wouldn't have felt so individually chic.

WINIFRED BLACK TELLS US ABOUT Aunt Mary's Happy Life

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THEY'VE all just come back from a visit with Aunt Mary up in the country, and they've been telling me about it.

Aunt Mary seems to be rather a dear.

She's forty something or other, and she lives on a farm on the outskirts of a thriving little village. She reared five children—three girls and two boys. And now they're all gone. And Aunt Mary has started in subscribing for the magazines and reading the papers and going to the movies and she's the leading member of a leading club in the village. And when there's a church supper Aunt Mary always furnishes the scalloped oysters and two kinds of cookies.

And at the picnics Aunt Mary brings chocolate cake and Lady Baltimore layer. And everybody says it's just too delicious for anything.

Aunt Mary's house is a great big old-fashioned farm house with clean, crisp curtains at the windows and a cool shady porch and a kitchen that makes you hungry just to look at it.

Active Aunt Mary

And Aunt Mary has a habit of disappearing about three o'clock on a warm afternoon and coming in again with a great big pitcher of iced fruit punch and a plate of cookies, and there's always a basket of apples or pears or nuts or something on Aunt Mary's porch. And Aunt Mary always has time to sit down and listen when the young wives and housekeepers run in for a minute or two to talk things over. They do say Aunt Mary has helped to patch up more lovers' quarrels than any one in the country. And they've named three new babies Mary within five miles of Aunt Mary's farm, and they're—every one of them—named after her.

Aunt Mary is rosy and comfortable to see. She's always smiling or else she looks as if it wouldn't take very much to make her smile.

Uncle Abner doesn't seem to find it very hard to smile either. He has a way of whistling under his breath that's really rather nice when you get used to it. And he can tell the quaintest stories of what happened to him when he was a boy and ran away to be a sailor.

Aunt Mary's girls are two of them married—the other is teaching school. They say she's wearing a ring and looking rather important these days, so you can't tell how long she's going to be teaching. That's Clara. She's the black-eyed one.

Mary and Kate are both blue-eyed. Mary's been married for three years now, and Kate's been married for a year and a half. Kate lives in town, where her husband owns the big general store.

And Mary lives on a farm and loves it, just as the other Mary did and does now.

One of the boys is married. He married Kate's husband's sister. Nice girl, Julia, and bright, too. The other two boys are doing well in the city. One of them is going to bring a friend of his home for Thanksgiving. Aunt Mary doesn't know the friend, but she's seen her picture and she thinks she's very nice-looking. She's a little worried about whether she can cook and manage—being brought up in the city so. But she's prepared to like her anyhow.

And there she is as calm as a clock, getting rollier pollier every year and not dieting and not massaging and not wearing rubber corsets or a thing.

And she's only been to the theatre twice in six months and she can't play bridge and she hasn't been away from home to stay longer than a week for twenty years; and yet, here's the funny part: Aunt Mary seems to be actually happy.

And her sister-in-law from town can't understand it. She simply can't.

The Sister-in-Law's View

Why she'd die cooped up like that on a farm, going to bed with the chickens and letting herself get fat and not knowing a thing about hair treatments or skin specialists. And sister-in-law wrinkles up her poor, tired, worn, little face and wonders about it. And sister-in-law is haggard and worried and she doesn't know just what to do with her two young folks. They seem so discontented at home and the girl is going to set up a studio downtown somewhere where she can live her own life. And Tom, the boy, has fallen in love with a perfectly awful girl, and nobody knows what to do. But thank goodness you realize how lucky you are when you go to see Aunt Mary and realize the dull life some people live and how they let themselves grow old and don't keep up-to-date or anything.

I do wonder what Aunt Mary and Abner are talking about right now. And what they make of it all when they do talk about it.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Chats About a Brocade Frock for Afternoon Wear.

"YES, Miss North usually wears very dressy clothes, but they are always good-looking." Pam was saying as I entered the manikins' room.

"What are you discussing?" I asked, casting inquiring glances first at Pam and then at Gaby.

"We were saying that plain costumes always look best in a crowd, and still that some people always wear dressy things, but manage to look well because their clothes are colorful and unusual." Pam replied.

"I heard you cite Miss North as an example," I said. "I just ran into her in the salon. She had taken her coat off, and the costume she wore was both colorful and dressy."

"What was it?" Pam asked.

"To begin with, she was on her way to a tea-dance," I replied. "I heard her tell Madame so."

Blue-Green and Gold Brocade Is Edged with Blue Satin.

"For such an occasion, she'd never wear a plain cloth frock," Gaby suggested.

"She didn't," I agreed. "But she had on a stunning model of colorful effect that I'm sure is a recent import."

"Tell us more," Gaby said.

"Well," I began, "I hardly know where to start."

"Material?" Gaby queried.

"A lovely blue-green and gold brocade," I answered.

"She goes in for bright greens and blues," Pam remarked.

"This was a medley of both," I said. "And she accented the color by having a blue satin edge to the skirt and an inset that extended all the way up to the girdle."

"The girdle was bronze and coral," I added.

"Well, a petite person like Miss North can get away with gay and unusual effects," Gaby said, pronouncing sentence.

"The frock had a curved shoulder line that gave the effect of a short kimono sleeve," I told them. "There was a slit across the top of the arm."

"That's much like the sleeve Madame used one season for dance frocks," Pam observed.

"Except that the curved shoulder line made this a longer sleeve," I told her.

"She had on cunning short gloves that she was showing Madame," I told them.

"Since she has come back from abroad, she always wears short gloves," Pam said.

"I'm sure she brought these from abroad," I told them. "They were white kid with deep black taffeta bands about them. When she turned the bands back you could see that the inside of the gloves had a hand painted design."

"I like gloves with tops that turn back to show some novel trimming inside," Gaby observed. "Miss North must love the details that count."

"She does," I agreed. "She is always carefully groomed."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7.

This may be a day of doubtful import according to the conflicting planetary testimonies. While there is a figure interpreted as bringing beneficial change, other aspects point to certain critical situations. These may relate to business affairs, but are also adverse to domestic, affectional and social interests. The health may also give concern and should not be allowed to interfere with the advantageous possibilities forecast. Benefits may be expected from friends of position or influence.

Those whose birthday it is, have a year of conflicting forecast. While certain benefits may be looked for, especially through the influence of friends, and there may be some important change, on the whole the situation calls for wise handling and the health should be given proper care. A child born on this day will be ambitious and have an eventful career.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Fashionable Uses of Glass and China.

TABLE setting has changed of late, and if we wish to be up to date we must go to the better china shops, read magazines with information on the subject or by some other method learn the new fashions in china.

Silver, for instance, does not figure as largely in table setting as in former years, except, of course, flat ware, and that is used in greater variety than ever. But sugar-bowl, creamer, spoon-holder and similar pieces have gone except in cases of white china decorated with silver deposit. Silver platters, vegetable-dishes, candlesticks and so on are still used, but only where extravagant outlay can be made on such things.

Cut glass, while it is still used, in some homes, is considered just a bit old-fashioned. But like old silver, old lace and fine furs it always has a certain dignity and is never out of place, though at the moment it may be a bit out of date.

This is the era of china and colored glassware. China ornaments, china candlesticks and glass flower-bowls or saucers all combine in a well-planned color scheme in last-minute fashions in table setting.

Table sets on the polished table are very generally used. In the center of the table we may see in turn, a wonderfully-brilliant colored parrot on a perch or branch, life-sized, of very fine china, or maybe a dove, a pheasant or a group of love-birds with a candlestick to match in coloring of china or polychrome. Either two side or four candlesticks may be used. Then with the silver flat ware, service-plates, and rainbow tinted or colored glassware, the table is all set except for flowers, place-cards and holder for nuts or bonbons. All this is simple, yet wonderfully effective. On sets of natural linen, or tinted linen, the color of the decorations comes out more vividly, and so they are being used even more than lace-trimmed and embroidered sets.

A charming orchid table, seen recently, may be described as an example of the ultra-new form of table decoration. An orchid linen table set, embroidered in solferoning and hemstitched, was used. In the center a large flower-saucer of white glass, shading to a purple rim, had three or four purple orchids floating on the surface. Four delicate orchid porcelain candlesticks held orchid candles. Orchid bordered or handed china service plates were used, and salted nuts lay in the hollow of papiermache orchids that looked wonderfully natural. Orchid butterflies were the place-cards, fastened to the rims of white tumblers, tinted to purple borders at the tops. The table was exquisite in its harmonious simplicity, yet very modern in the arrangement.

On another table, perhaps quite as worthy of description, a lace and white linen set was used. In the center was a big green parrot. The china branch upon which he sat rose from a soft, twined wreath of smilax. Four brilliant candlesticks in gold polychrome held green candles that matched the birds' feathers. Green decorated service-plates were used, and small green papierm che Osage oranges were used to old nuts. Place-cards were in the novel form of long, green parrot-wing p ns. These were especially approp ate as the dinner was given by a well known literary club. Tiny name-cards were fastened to the pens with gold cords.

The free use of color allows many wonderful effects if the hostess is of an artistic turn of mind.

Modern hostesses are giving small dinner parties of congenial people in preference to the large formal dinner-party. They entertain often enough to get through their calling lists at least once each season.

YOUR HEALTH

A Physical Examination Should Be Annual Affair

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

AT a life insurance convention recently I spoke about the increased expectation of life now, as compared with fifty years ago. After the session a nice young man, a life insurance agent, showed me a diagram prepared by his company. Where the normal or average expectation of life is fifty-one years, the expectation of insured persons is more than seventy years.

Of course it isn't the mere fact of being insured that adds fifty per cent to the chance of life. What it does mean is that insured persons are selected men and women. The bad risks are sorted out and rejected.

I have not the statistics at hand at this moment, but these figures appear to indicate that at least one-third of applicants for life insurance are turned down.

No matter what the percentage is, it is a pity that in the insurable age, somewhere between eighteen and fifty-five, there are so many persons with defects which are liable to make them die young.

I don't want you to be unduly alarmed even if you have been rejected for life insurance. You may have pronounced physical defects and live to a ripe old age. I knew a man who quit work at thirty-eight because he was a chronic invalid and liable to die any minute. He died at ninety-three.

With proper care a person with almost any one of the "incurable" diseases can live to a reasonable age.

The doctrine I like to preach is the idea of finding out at the very beginning of its attack that something is wrong. The chronic ailments do not creep on you like a thief in the night. Indeed, they make their presence known almost as certainly as a New Year's Eve reveller. The trouble is, we deliberately disregard kind Nature's timely warnings.

A plan is being advocated which possesses great merit. It is proposed to have a physical examination on every birthday. This insures a periodical check-up of your bodily assets.

If you don't care enough about yourself to have this done on your own birthday, go to the doctor on your wife's birthday, or on the natal day of a favorite boy or girl.

If people would only keep track of their organs as they do of their dollars, how the expectancy of life would lengthen!

You ought to carry life insurance anyhow. Select a good company and apply for a policy, no matter how small. This will do two things for you—it will start you on the path of thrift, and it will necessitate your having a thorough physical examination. You win whether you are accepted or rejected, because if rejected you will be inspired to get well of the ailment which causes the company to refuse your risk.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Queen Who Ruled Over Babylon.

SHE lived by the sword and died by the sword—this celebrated woman of long, long ago. No doubt her barbaric heart was content.

The crumbling walls of a dead city pay tribute to her greatness, now, after centuries have flown.

Plains that once were ...ountains, attest her greatness, and the ghosts of immense aqueducts, stretching over the lowlands of the Euphrates, bear witness to her vision.

Semiramis she was called, in the thirteenth century, before the Christian era.

Even when she reigned on the throne of Nineveh, beside Menones, overshadowed by his masculinity, the story of her wisdom and beauty traveled to far corners of the earth.

Ninus, king of Assyria, heard of her and paid her tribute. So affronted was Menones by the action of the neighboring monarch that he sought forgetfulness in death. His court found his body dangling one morning from a branch to which he had hung himself in the night.

Semiramis was free to follow ambition, and her first step was to accept the suit of Ninus. Nor did he find her fascination diminished by the intimacies of matrimony. So infatuated with her charm did he become that he made the mistake committed by many rulers of the time—that of promising the woman whatever gift she might ask.

Semiramis asked for one day of complete power. For the hours between sun and sun she wished to be undisputed ruler of the country.

It was an unfortunate day for Ninus when he granted his queen's request, for hardly were the words out of his mouth when she ordered him executed, that her reign might be prolonged.

Then began her work of building up and developing Babylon. She made the city the most magnificent in the world, and everywhere, through her dominion, she left monuments of her greatness. She leveled mountains, filled up valleys, and had water carried to unfruitful plains.

Under her generalship many nations were conquered. Ethiopia among the rest. But India conquered her armies in the end. Then she resigned the government to Ninyas, her son.

Ninyas apparently deemed the country safer for himself with his mother out of the way—even as she had seen opportunity for her own glory with Ninus removed.

Accordingly, Semiramis was slain by the hand of her son.

NEW SCHOOLS OF INTEREST

PUBLIC WANTS TO KNOW FUTURE LOCATIONS.

Henkle Suggests to Board That Matter Had Better Be Considered Soon in Case of Bond Campaign in Spring.

President Henkle suggested to the board of education Tuesday morning that a building program should be considered soon, in preparation for a bond issue in the spring. "The public is greatly interested in the location of new school buildings," he said, "and the law requires a statement of the purpose for which money is to be used when proposing a bond issue to the voters."

A mater of adjustment of interest on bonds of the school district, sold a couple of weeks ago for refunding to the Omaha Trust company, was presented to the board by the Lincoln representative, D L Petis, Tuesday morning. The contract stated that all expense of refunding should be met by the Trust company. The bonds were bearing 5 per cent interest, but all interest was stopped by the board November 1. The company now asks to be allowed 5 per cent interest on money paid out from November 1 until the new bonds are ready. Mr. Pettis said $426,000 in bonds have been presented to them and the holders had received payment. The city treasurer would have taken up the bonds for the district, if he had been allowed to cancel them. Members of the board of education could not see why 4 3-4 per cent is not enough to allow period in November, if it is sufficient for refunding of $712,000 the total amount sold, for an extended period. On motion of M. L. Palmer, the board voted to refer the matter to Charles Stuart and E E. Henkle with power to act. The sum of $1,000 is involved.

A voucher of $10,518.62 was allowed to the memorial stadium committee for dirt delivered to the Hayward school playgrounds. The total claim had been $11,513 17, but $284 had been deducted by general consent for supervision required, and $710 was deducted for dirt on other sites.

Secretary Ludlam was granted permission to clear his files of useless receipts and other papers, accumulating up to June 30, 1922 from the routine affairs of the office or filed there by teachers, principals, supervisors, operation and maintenance employes and others. Plans and specifications for the older ischool buildings are to be retained, but the secretary was given permission to destroy papers incident to all building except the last new group. All vouchers are preserved in bound volumes in the vault, except subsequent to July 1, 1910. Duplicates of vouchers and receipts are filed with the city treasurer.

Some bundles of oldtime vouchers, destined for the scrap heap, were shown by the secretary. One dated in 1881 allowed H. W. Hardy, father of W. E. and E. C. Hardy, $3.60 for six chairs. The salary roll, December 1, 1881, was signed by Guy A. Brown, secretary, and amounted to $1,404.16 for the preceding month. The average salary was $27.50. The salaries for superintendents, principals and janitors was lumped at $1711.35 for October, 1881. Among the names of teachers in the early eighties were seen those of Fannie Outcalt, H W. Caldwell, Emma Parks, Abbit Tiffany and S. H. Habmann, the last named as supervisor of music. In 1885 E. T. Hartley was superintendent.

The superintendent was authorized to establish first aid classes in cooperation with the Red Cross in the Whittier junior high. This will be in the form of an activity on the elective basis.

The superintendent stated that children who have been working in the beet fields would all have returned by another week, which would make necessary three extra teachers at Hayward, and one each at Longfellow and Park.

Mrs. T. A. Colburn was granted leave of absence for the first semester and Mrs. R. G. Tudor was engaged to replace her.

Nina Baker was elected as teacher and assistant to the principal at Randolph, at a salary of $1,500, and Berniece TeSell was made half-time offic eassistant at $30 per month. Resignations were accepted from Mrs. M A. Nelson and Henrietta D. George.

PROGRAM FOR THE EPWORTH ASSEMBLY

Improvements at Park to Be Made When Pledges Are Collected —Board Elects Officers.

One way to get around the increasing difficulty of accommodating Epworth Assembly crowds at evening sessions in the auditorium will be to have programs in Epworth hall at the same time, at least four nights in the ten. This was decided Monday night at a meeting of the board of control, where first plans for the 1924 assemby were made.

Projected improvements at Epworth Lake park include new bridges over the lake, a new roof and more seats for Epworth hall, grading and tiling of the grounds to direct surface water from the surrounding hills into the lake, overhauling andextension of electric light wires and cindering of driveways. It was decided last summer to raise at least $7,500 for current indebtedness and improvements, the annual conference to contribute $2,500 when the rest was pledged. Pledges totalling $2,800 were obtained at once, and Rev. F. I. Finch of Warren Methodist church is now at work bringing the total up to $5,000. As soon as this goal is in sight, improvements will be begun.

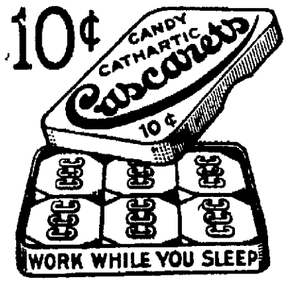

Dr. William Stidger of Detroit, assembly preacher last summer, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong, the song leaders, will be returned if possible. The Assembly volunteer band and all other branches of recreation and outdoor activities will be given place on the program. Bible conference from 9 to 10 each morning will take the place of Sunday school. The rest of the program is being worked out by the executive committee, whose members are C. A. Fulmer, E. M. Avery, W. W. Cadwallader, O. J. Fee and W. Edgar Gates.

Dr. A. J. Croft of University Place was appointed dean and W. Edgar Gates manager of the Epworth League institute, to be held July 21 to 27. The assembly dates are July 31 to August 10, inclusive. The board of control elected these officers, most of whom served last year:

C. A. Fulmer, president.
E. M. Avery, treasurer.
W. W. Cadwallader, superintendent of grounds and buildings.
W. Edgar Gates, secretary.
Dr. A. J. Croft, first vice president.
Mrs. M. E. Gilbert, Kearney, second vice president.
Rev. F. E. Pfoutz, third vice president.
Dr. F. F. Travis, fourth vice president.

How's Your Stomach?

Any Weakness or Distress?

Red Cloud, Nebr.—"Some time ago I wrote to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel for his advice in regard to my stomach trouble, whicch I was sure was neuralgia. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery along with the 'Anuric Tablets' and feel that I have been greatly benefited by their use. I had about given up when I wrote Dr. Pierce—now I am feeling fine. I have every faith in Dr. Pierce's medicine."—Mrs. Dora Coleman.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

LIFER ASKS NEW TRIAL

ATTORNEY TELLS SUPREME COURT HE'S INNOCENT MAN.

Twenty-Year-Old Lad From Beatrice, Found Guilty of Murder, Seeks Reversal of Verdict of Jury.

Lloyd Crocker, attorney for Francis South, a Beatrice youth who is serving a life term in the state prison on a conviction for murder, was in supreme court Tuesday afternoon urging the innocense of his client and his right to a new trial.

South was accused of being one of three young men, the others being Frank Stewart and George Warren, who held up and robbed Charles Wolfe and when the later resisted was beaten over the head, causing injuries from which he later died. This occured on the 29 of November last and South was brought to trial on January 8. Wolfe having died December 21.

The principle witness against South was Warren. He testified that he had worked with Wolfe and noticed he was always carrying around a fat roll of bills. This suggested to Stewart and South the possibility of easily wresting this from him in a holdup. Warren detailed the plans made, and said he furnished the car that took the others to the railroad depot near the barn where Wolfe was putting up his horses. He said he waited till the other two made the holdup, and furnished the quick getaway necessary. The three divided $54 between them as the proceeds. He said the two men were scpoted with blood when they returned to the car, and that South said he had hit him five or six times.

South is twenty years old, and was reared in Beatrice. He has a wife and child, and they accompanied their attorney to the city. The murder occurred between 7 and 7:10 in the evening, and it is the defendant's contention that he was playing pool in a downtown hall at the time. He left there to go home and get some money from his wife with which to buy cigarettes. He went to two other pol halls and attended a crap game and then went home. He produced a number of witnesses who testified as to his whereabouts that evening and what he was doing but the state insists that there was time left in which the murder, which was quickly done, could have ben committed and the defendants back where witnesses said they saw South.

South's attorney insists that the court did not give him a fair trial; that he acted a part of the time as prosecuting attorney; that he would not allow the case to be taken to another county where no public excitement over the crime existed; that the court insisted on submitting his case to a jury panel, several members of which had sat on the jury in October, where he was convicted of stealing chickens, and that the court incited the jury against him by ordering the sheriff to guard against any ossibility of jail delivery.

The attorney general contended that the evidence supports the verdict, that the overalls South wore the night of the murder bore spots that a university bacterologist said were caused by human blood, and that he could not avail himself of the fact that his companions were ex-convicts when he admitted having run around with them.

ALFALFA KING IS HERE

H. D. Watson Could Pass a Law Making It Criminal Offense to Raise Wheat in Nebraska.

"No man ought to be allowed to raise a bushel of wheat in Nebraska," said H. D. Watson of Kearney, when he called Tuesday at the office of Secretary of State Pool. "The reason I give is what does not pay the producer for the time and expense and it taxes the quality of the land on which it grows. Canada and Argentine can raise enough wheat for the world. Let them do it and let us raise something else.

Mr. Watson has been called the "alfalfa king." He came to Nebraska forty years ago and alleges he is the first man in the state to raise alfalfa and to advocate as a crop to be grown on dry ground, not as a ditch plant as it was then being raised in California. He commenced with 160 acres of land and debts. He later accumulated 8,000 acres and was out of debt. He found Nebraska farmers beneath the work of milking cows. He started a butter factory and induced others to at least let their boys milk cows and soon was paying $100,000 a year for cream brought to his factory. He is now seventy-nine years of age.

SMITHS TO HAVE REUNION.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Nov. 6.—The "Smith association" will hold a reunion and convention at a country church near this town Thanksgiving day. More than a thousand will probably attend. Near the church is the home of the late Henry and Celia Smith, founders of a prominent branch of the family. The population of this section is nearly 100 per cent native born, and the Smiths in the territory are relatively as numerous as anywhere in the world. In one county there is a township populated exclusively by Smiths. That is Smith township.

MOTHER!

Child's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

When baby is constipated, has wind-colic, feverish breath, coated tongue, or diarrhea, a half-teaspoonful of genuine "California Fig Syrup" promptly moves the poisons, gases, bile, souring food and waste right out. Never cramps or overacts. Babies love its delicious taste.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for infants in arms, and children of all ages, plainly printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Hubby's Wife: Because he is willing to eat the meal as it is, cold or warmed over no husband, no man, seemingly, can understand his coming home late for diner is a trial for a woman. Yet every woman who has a husband, father or brother knows how exasperating it is. Only some great emergency or pressing business should cause him to fail to appear at the appointed time.

It does no good to scold. Try this instead. Ask him to fun if he will give you a dollar every time he is late to dinner. Don't force him to explain,—don't say a word about the reason. But when he comes in late, demand the dollar, laughingly but determinedly. And keep it, when he gives it to you.

If he is a good husband in every other way, do not let this loom too large in your mind. Be thankful it is this fault and not something which would really break your heart —tho this may try your temper.

Dear Mary Gordon: I have never written you before and my letter is altogether different than any I've ever seen in your column. I am writing you trying to locate a friend of mine in Lincoln that is married now and I don't know her name but I know she is in Lincoln. Her name was Alice Kulla before she was married and I thought perhaps Alice, or someone that knew her might see this and send in her address to your column and I will watch it very close for the address. I became acquainted with Alice at Geneva, Neb., two or three years ago. She perhaps will remember me by my "nickname,"—"Butch."

A. If anyone knows of the person inquired about, I shall be glad to pass the information on.

Dear Mary Gordon: I'm coming to you with my troubles as many do altho mine are different from most of them. Altho I hope you'll give me space in your corner. My trouble is moths. I have them about all over the house and clothes. Now I was going to ask you how to get rid of them. could I get something to smoke the house out with? Could I put clothes in a small closet, smoke them with something that would kill moths or would it be injurious to the clothing? They are even in the cracks in the floors. I'm awfully worried over this as we have a big house. I read your column so much and see so many get advice from you so I feel free enough to ask. Thank you for space and favor.—Worried.

A. Never having had experience with moths in such numbers I called a Lincoln furniture store. They told me you might use a liquid preparation which sprayed around the house. Any drug store can furnish you such a preparation. Nothing you can burn will prove effective.

In the case of the clothing, you must look each garment over carefully for moths, brush them and hang them out in the air.

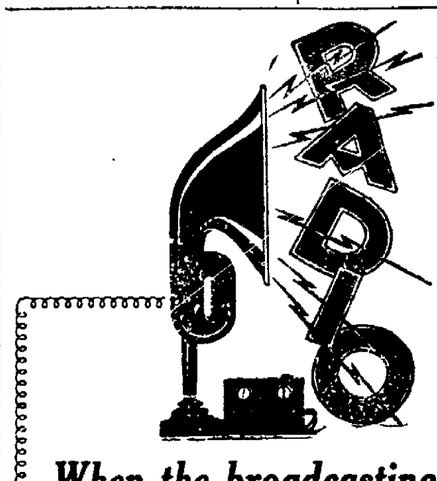

Dear Mary Gordon: I should like to know to whom I could write (in any state) asking for a complete list of colleges, normals and universities —also business colleges established in that state. Thank you for a reply. Yours truly.—"Peggy."

Any state superintendent of public instruction should be able to furnish you with such a list.

Luncheon for Downtown Workers

The business man's or woman's lunch is apt to be a hurried affair of bolting heavy foods. A morning in an office rushed with work induces a high tension of nerves which extends thruout the noon hour. The laws of health demand relaxation during this interval, and attention to the selection of the proper foods, as well as to the leisurely eating of them. Many business people attempt to relieve the exhaustion of a hard morning by overeating, with the result that we find the first hours of the afternoon filled with discomfort, decreased ability to think clearly, and a physical lethargy. Only one-fourth of the daily food requirement should be allowed for the mid day meal. The table d'hote luncheon appeals for economy's sake, but unless you are one of the few who are unable to cultivate a keen appetite for a substantial breakfast, it will be to your advantage to spend an equal sum on a carefully selected a la carte luncheon. You will avoid overeating and find that your capacity for hard work in the afternoon is enlarged. The noon meal consisting of soup, simple salad and a fruit dessert will be well balanced and supply you with sufficient energizing value to last until dinner. It may be rounded out with the addition of rolls, or a substantial sandwich. You may prefer to have a creamed or escaloped dish replace the soup. As long as you confine yourself to the simple, easily assimilated foods you will experience no discomfort. For those who feel that they must have a heavier luncheon, the menu includes savory cheese dishes, eggs prepared in unique ways and rice or macaroni in delicious combinations. A satisfying luncheon of these dishes may be completed by the addition of a puffed or baked potato, salad and a simple desert.

Indulge in whatever beverage you most enjoy, select food combinations wisely and remember not to overeat. Pastries, rich cakes, heavy puddings and improperly tried foods are most likely to tax the digestive system and handicap you in your work.

STADIUM-PLEDGE MEETING

University Freshmen Hold Big Rally Tuesday Morning in Armory.

The Innocents and Black Masque of the University of Nebraska, with the band to lend "pep," put on a lively meeting Tuesday morning to inspire freshmen with Cornhusker spirit. This was the beginning of a campaign for freshmen pledges towards the memorial stadium. Badges with a picture of the stadium were distributed. Hartley and Coach Schulte were the speakers.

A monster thermometer has been erected at the armory to indicate the progress of the drive. Many freshmen had already pledged their units, as the fraternity and sorority houses had been visited in advance.

Grain exports last week amounted to 2,147,000 bushels, compared with 4,006 000 bushels the previous week.

SHOPMEN IN CONFERENCE

BURLINGTON PAY SCHEDULES ARE UP FOR REVISION.

Working Conditions Said to Be Fairly Satsifactory But Some Readjustments Are Now Under Consideration.

Mechanical department officials and representatives of shop workers on the Burlington system spent a part of last week in Chicago and considered schedules of the workmen. It is understood the conference will be continued for some time, but that conditions are such that no trouble will follow.

Readjustment of schedules hastily made after the strike of 1922 is necessary and it is understood that some changes in the rates of pay will be made, the revision of pay schedules like most other revisions being upward. Just what this change will be no one forecasts now, but it is said the readjustment will come about amicably and that relations between the mechanical department association and the railroad are pleasant.

Reports from Burlington shops are that working conditions were never better for the company and that the workers are satisfied and not inclined to cause trouble. The shops are turning out more work and the workers are making better pay than they made before the strike if individual averages are considered. This statement about the amount of pay comes from a shop worker and not from a railroad official.

"If Lieutenant Governor Johnson does as the papers say he is going, ask voters to vote for him for senator at the republican primary April 14," said Secretary of State Pool, "there will be no votes left for him, because the other candidates are going to hold their primary election April 8, the day provided by law." The last legislature changed the date of primary election in presidential year to the second Tuesday in April.

The Union Power & Light company, a subsidiary of one of the big eastern companies that owns power plants in eleven states, has been organized to operate plants at Columbus, North Platte and Aberdeen, recently purchased. Of this sum $1,800.000 are bonds and th eremainder preferred common stock, the latter having no par value.

State Compensation Commisisoner Frye has ruled in a contested case that Arthur Boyce, jr., aged sixteen years of age, must resort to suit under the common law if he desires to recover damaged from J. R. Burleigh, who conducts a chicken hatchery in Lincoln. He holds that Mr. Burleigh is not under the compensation law. The boy was injured in the right foot by the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of Rex Hazelrigg. Both were employed by Burleigh. Ater the work of the day was performed the Boyce youth took a shotgun out of Burleigh's office and shot at birds about the place. After the gun had been returned to the office it was discharged by Hazelrigg. Both had been cautioned never to use the gun for any purpose.

The appeal case of Rosie Tady against J. J. Warta was argued and submitted in supreme court Tuesday morning. The plaintiff was a patient of the defendant, and in operating on her for sinus truobles she was injured. As her attorney told it the doctor had a chisel about six or seven inches long with a lead pencil like point. This he inserted in hre nostril until it touched the maxillary sinus. Then he applied an iron mallet to the blunt part of the chisel, for the purpose of boring a hole in the bone. He succeeded. He then took hold with his hand, and gave a pull and a twist. About an eighth of an inch of the chisel point broke off and remained imbedded. The lower court upheld his contention that it was an accident in which he was at no fault, but suggested that the chisel was defective, and directed a verdict. The plaintiff objects to thi action of the court, holding that a reasonable man might also make the inference that he used too much force and that the jury ought to have been allowed to say which inference is correct.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

A dinner and social was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Grow, 402 South Twenty-ninth street, in honor of Miss Ruth Wheeler, who will soon leave for Los Angeles to make her home. Miss Wheeler held the office of Ruth in Electa chapter No. 9., O. E. S., during Mrs. Grow's year as worthy matron and Mrs. Grow invited her officers and their husbands and wives to assemble at her home for dinner and to give Miss Wheeler a good by party and to express their good wishes for happiness in her new home. The guests were seated at one long table decorated with chrysanthemums. After a splendid dinner Mrs. Grow introduced E. W. Brown, who spoke of Miss Wheeler's good work in the Star. J. S. Baer read some lines entitled "Ruth Wheeler's Going Away." Mrs. A. D. Grow then presented Miss Wheeler a silver mesh bag on behalf of the guests and expressed deep appreciation of Miss Wheeler's work and courtesy. Miss Wheeler responded in deep appreciation of the kindness shown her and read a little poem which she had prepared. "Our Friends." Mrs. William Wheeler thanked the company for the honor and kindness shown to hre daughter. Mrs. Orville Andrews sang a number of selections with Mrs. Louise Mitchell at the piano and the company sang a number of the old songs. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Appropriate refreshments were served at theclose of the evening to seventy-eight guests.

Mrs. Maurice Hyde and Miss Eleanor T. Miller entertained informally Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Miller, 658 South Seventeenth in honor of the wives of ministers who have recently come to Lincoln to reside. The guests of honor were Mrs. W. A. Albright, Mrs. Charles S. Bream, Mrs. R. C. Bailey, Mrs. E L Hobbs, Mrs. C. P. Lang, Mrs. Walter Neph, Mrs. G. R. Randall, Mrs. W. E. Smith and Mrs. Frank Travis. Fifty guests called during the receiving hours. Yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the rooms and refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Ex-Governor John Burk of North Dakota who is in Lincoln as attorney in a law suit called Tuesday on Governor Bryan. He was accompanied to the governor's office by T. S. Allen. They were soon joined by Ed P. Smith of Omaha and Chief Justice Morrissey and Judge Good of the supreme court of Nebraska. Mr. Burk, Judge Good and Mr. Smith were classmates in the law college at Iowa City. Mr. Smith referred to Mr. Burk's unfortunate experience in Wall street as one of the worst conspiracies against an honest man ever organized by high financiers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elmore were at home informally to their friends Monday afternoon and evening at their home, 1736 G in honor of the fifty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. One hundred guests called during the receiving hours. Pink roses and chrysanthemums were used in decorating the rooms and during the afternoon Mrs. I. M. Heckler, Mrs. A. H. Webb and Mrs. Stella Yont assisted in serving. In the evening Mrs. Elmore was assisted by Mrs. L. O. Swan, Mrs. John Bishop and Mrs. John Brady.

Miss Mary Baker, former University of Nebraska student, is in Lincoln as national student volunteer traveling secretary to attend the student volunteer meeting for election of delegates to the convention to be held in Minneapolis in January. Miss Baker is a member of the class of 1921, was a Palladian and medical student and is preparing to become a medical missionary to China.

A group of university of Nebraska people met for luncheon Tuesday at the University club with Dean Seashore of Iowa City who is in Lincoln for a short time. Dean Seashore is dean of the graduate college of the university of Iowa and is in the city to confer with Nebraska authorities concerning changes in the school curriculum to fit the special needs of the gifted student.

Mr. and Mrs. Golden P. Kratz and son, Kent, of Sidney are visiting at the home of Mrs. Kratz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Paper, 1344 C street. They will be in Lincoln a couple of weeks. Mrs. Kratz was formerly Miss Clara Paper. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kratz are former students of the University of Nebraska.

State Superintendent Matzen will dedicate three rural school buildings in Boone county next Thursday and Friday, one near Wahoo November 12, and another in the town of Chappell, November 18.

Mrs. Rogers Scribner returned Monday from Denver where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Paul Cannell and Mr. Cannell for the past four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Forbes have returned from a ten days' motor trip to Denver. They were accompanied by Mrs. Frank Livringhouse.

GIRL CADETS WILL BE HERE

HASTINGS CORPS FEATURE OF ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM.

Twenty Girls in West Point Uniform Will Do Infantry Drill at Notre Dame Game and in Auditorium.

The Hastings Girls' cadet corps, twenty girls in West Point uniforms, recently the hit of the national American Legion convention at San Francisco, will be in Lincoln Saturday as a feature of Lincoln's armistice day celebration. The group of girls is sponsored by the Hastings post of the American Legion and has gained considerable fame since it was organized last July.

While in San Francisco attending the national convention at the expense of the Legion they were given flattering offers by the leading theaters along the coast. They have had numerous offers to put on their drills at various places this armistice day but they have promised Lincoln to come here for the day.

"Twenty girls dressed in West Point uniforms and carrying real guns are seldom heard of and Lincoln is especially lucky in being able to see them in the armistice parade, at the football game and the reception in the evening," Marcus Poteet said Tuesday. Mr. Poteet has been working hard to get them to take part in the celebration.

At the reception at the auditorium in the evening these girls will show their training in military maneuvers. They will also appear at the Nebraska-Notre Dame football game in the afternoon. They will put on about five minutes of military drill under the command of Lawrence E. Jones, a regular army officer who trained them, between halves of the game.

The reception at the auditorium in the evening is in honor of Charles W. Taylor, newly elected department commander of the American Legion. Those who have been invited to stand in the receiving line are: Commander Taylor, Mrs. H. R. Ball, secretary of the ladies' auxiliary; Gen. George B. Duncan, Mayor Zehrung, Governor Bryan and Adjutant General Paul and his staff.

A dance for all ex-service men will take place in the auditorium immediately after the reception. This will be free to all men appearing in uniform or wearing a discharge or veteran organization button. Veterans of all wars are invited. The girls' cadet corps will put on their drills just before the dance. One of Lincoln's best seven piece orchestras will furnish the music. The auditorium will be decorated with American flags.

ONE DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENT

some gasoline at the Skelly oil station on the corner of Sixteenth and N he drove south out of the station driveway and turned north on Sixteenth. He said that when he turned east on N street he saw the girls and they supposedly saw him because one of them stepped back and the other two jumped in front of the car. He tried to dodge them and swung the car to the north, striking the curb. The car was slightly damaged.

Miss Stabenow, when asked to give an explanation of the accident to Captain Anderson of the police, Commissioner Dayton, and Sheriff Hensel, said, "We girls were all going to the show and were walking down the street locking arms with each other. Bertie was on the outside, that is, closest to Sixteenth street; Etta was in the center and I was on the inside. We had just stepped off the curb when a light flashed and the car struck us. I don't remember much after that."

"Didn't Blow Horn."

"How fast was he going?" Captain Anderson questioned.

"I do not know," Miss Stabenow stated, "because we didn't have any warning to see him approaching us. I am positive he did not blow his horn."

Miss Myrtle Allen, 1623 North Tenth street, who is a housemaid at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house, 1610 K street, was another eye witness, of the accident. She told Captain Anderson that she was returning home from work and was following the girls at a distance of about fifteen feet. Her description of the accident was:

"The girls were just a few feet in front of me and I could hear them talking about going to a show. A car that had just left the gasoline station turned north and it was going pretty fast. When it turned east on N street I saw what was going to happen. The driver turned the corner too fast to avoid hitting the girls who had just stepped off the curb and were about half way between it and the street car tracks. The car seemed to drag or push all of them across the street. When it struck the girls the auto swerved diagonally northeast into the curb and a cement post on the north side of N street.

Were Lying Under Car.

"When I reached the car two of the girls were lying underneath the car, one with her head lying on the curb and the other between the front and rear wheel on the right side of the car. I don't know what became of the third girl. The oil station man and another fellow came then and we carried one of the girls into the oil station and called the ambulance."

Mr. Ketelbut is a barber by trade. Officers Woodward, Rymer and Burroughs investigated the scene of the accident and brought Ketelhut to the police station. He told the officers that he was not going more than twenty miles and that he was on the right side of the street. The car was an Overland touring car. The lights and front wheels were smashed.

ROTARIANS HEAR PROGRAM

Miss Margaret Streeter Gives Talk and Thurlow Lieurance Furnishes Some Music.

The Lincoln Rotary club at its noon luncheon Tuesday listened to Miss Margaret Streeter, who is making a musical survey of the Lincoln public schools, and to Thurlow Lieurance, composer of Indian songs, and E. V. Powell of Boston, a flute player.

Miss Streeter complimented the Lincoln school children on the good music they furnish and said that her efforts are directed to a more wholesome kind of popular music. She expressed her aversion to the coarser sort of so-called popular harmony.

Messrs. Lieurance and Powell furnished two flute and piano numbers, a Pueblo loves ong and a negro folk song.

President Newens called special attention to the joint father and son banquet of the four Lincoln service clubs which will be held at 6:15 Monday evening at the chamber of commerce. He said that about 750 men and boys are expected. An Armistice day program will be given.

Dr. B. F. Bailey asked the club to become interested in securing jobs for several young men now taking vocational educational courses under Director C. A. Fulmer.

Rotarians are getting acquainted. They were met at the door as they reached the luncheon room and greeted and called by their first names. George Dunlap told of his experiences in the northwest during a vacation period. George F. Burt introduced Fred Ballard, a former Havelock boy, and a son of Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Ballard, and now a distinguished playwright.

A message of sympathy was sent to Mayor Zehrung, veteran Rotarian, who is ill at Chicago.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

OMAHA MAN ROASTS ALL LEGISLATURES

Pays Corporation Tax and Says Liberty Is Scarcer in America Than Under Russian Czar.

Secretary of State Pool has received the following letter from E. A. Higgins, representing Morrill-Higgins company of Omaha, in reply to a letter relative to the payment of the annual occupation tax due from the company to the state:

My dear Mr. Pool: We are enclosing herewith report for occupation tax and check covering fee and penalty for which kindly forward us the proper receipt.

We note you take the position that any law enacted by our duly elected embryo law makers is sacred and needs the defense of no man. Take a hitch in your trousers Charley. What we ought to do is repeal 50 per cent of the present enacted laws and adjourn the state legislature for 20 years and you know it as well as I do but perhaps in your position it wouldn't be good policy to say so.

About all those fellows do when they get together is follow some bell weather grafting politicians who have scores of bills to assess new kinds of taxes and create more political jobs or follow some "holier than thou" reformer who has a string of bills to legislate us into the "Kingdom of Heaven."

If it wasn't for the fact that the Great American public holds as sacred only the fundamental laws based on justice, equity and the ten commandments, and ignores the rest of the unjust tyrannical "thou shalt nots", written into our statues by fanatics, certainly this country would long ago have been seething in revolution. It may come yet if they ride their hobby laws too hard.

This country now has less liberty than Russia in the days of the Czars. If they keep on restricting our liberties and raising our taxes something is going to be wide open before long.

Thanks for the invitation to visit your office. Don't think I am directing my effort to sin at you personally as I know your reputation you are a really good scout.

Veteran Basketball Coach Comes Back to Nebaska

BILL KLINE WILL HANDLE CAGE TEAM

Coached Nebraska Teams in 1918 and Prior to That Time Turned Out Winners for Nebraska Wesleyan.

W. G. "Bill" Kline, veteran coach, will handle the Nebraska basketball team this season, according to announcement by Athletic Director Dawson Tuesday morning Mr. Kline has been coaching both football and basketball at the University of Florida for the past three years but he was forced to give up his work there because the climate did not agree with his son.

As soon as word got about that Bill Kline was headed north, every effort was made to get in touch with him and as a result he starts drilling the Husker basketball team Wednesday evening.

Coach Kline was at Nebraska Wesleyan from 1911 to 1917 inclusive While there he turned out some great teams, winning five out of seven basketball games played with University of Nebraska teams and his fives were state champions every year. It was conceded that he had the best team in the Missouri valley at one time.

ketball team which Paul Schissler took the next year and made a great record with. Coach Kline started at University of Florida and has been there since that time.

In the statement issued by Director Dawson, he explains the status of Ralph Thiesen's appointment as basketball coach, which was announced two weeks ago. Mr. Thiesen agreed to accept the position and do the best he could but insisted that Nebraska was entitled to a more experienced coach. Mr. Dawson's statement:

"Thru Ralph Thiesen's splendid spirit, loyalty to the university and eagerness that we have the best available coaches, we have engaged W. G. Kline as basketball coach for this year.

Did Not Seek Position.

"In the first place Ralph Thiesen did not apply for the position. I went to him personally and explained that it was impossible for us to secure the man we wanted for the job.

"Reluctantly, Mr. Thiesen agreed to step into the breech and do what he could to handle the situation, at the same time saying we were entitled to a more experienced coach—in fact he said we should have the best coach in the country so that Nebraska basketball would maintain its proper standing in th evalley.

"And now, when we suddenly find Mr. Kline is available, Mr. Thiesen said he was only too glad to step down in favor of Mr. Kline."

HARRY WILLS READY FOR REST OF THEM

Dusky Challenger Knocks Jack Thompson Over in Fourth Round and Begins Looking About for More.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—"Set the rest of them up and we'll knock 'em over," Paddy Mullins, the squat, dumpy manager of Harry Wills said today.

As stunt number two in his belated campaign to force Jack Dempsey to accept his challenge, Wills knocked off Jack Thompson, one of the leading seventh raters over in Newark last night.

Thompson became what is known as a "technical" victim when his seconds tossed in a towel five seconds before the end of the fourth round.

Mullins Guesses Right.

"I suppose those who have been trying to keep Wills away from Dempsey will say that Harry looked bad and Thompson was only a ham," Mullins added.

They are saying that very thing.

The most flattering thing said about the colored challenger after he had landed on Thompson at least a hundred times without getting one back was that Wills did not have brittle hands.

It had been reported that his "dukes" were in bad shape.

Leo Flynn, manager of Jack Renault and one of the most fluent orators in the business, announced after Renault had knocked out Floyd Johnson that he was going to send the Canadian after Wills, Gibbons and Firpo.

Renault Goes Hunting.

Flynn wanted witnesses to go along with him yesterday and see Renault throw his gloves at Wills' feet. Renault didn't however. He spent the day turning down a good offer to send Renault in with Tommy Gibbons and getting tickets for Renault, who wants to "go hunting."

Floyd Johnson, who was knocked out by Renault, is going to spend the winter on a ranch in Oregon and will get back to business next summer.

LINCOLN GRIDSTERS IN LIGHT WORKOUT

Foss' Injuries Probably Will Keep Him Out of Game—Entire Squad Stiff From St. Joe Game.

Lincoln high school football squad went thru a light workout, Monday afternoon, during which stiff and bruised muscles were given a chance to limber up Most of the first string was chased to the showers after a light passing and punting practice had been run off. The second team scrimmaged for about twenty downs against a combination of first and reserve team players.

Foss, who substituted for Cook at center during the Saturday game, will probably be out of the game for some time. His leg has been badly wrenched. He was hobbling about on crutches watching the practice.

McIntyre, who was taken out of the Saturday game on account of injuries, was in moleskins but was not feeling his best. He will be in condition for the coming game with York. The rest of the squad, most of whom are carrying minor injuries of some sort, will be in good trim for the week-end battle.

LITTLE LESSONS IN FOOTBALL

Should a quarterback have absolute command of the team on the field?

Answered by
KNUTE ROCKNE.

Coach of football, Notre Dame university. Famous for his fighting teams, beaten only twice in last four years.

A quarterback should have absolute control and command of the team on the field as regards calling of signals. He alone is highly trained along tactical lines and is responsible for tactical errors. The captain has charge of all matters pertaining to officiating, accepting or declining penalties, choosing to receive or kick, calling for substitutes, and telling the referee when ready to recommence after time has been taken out. In other matters the quarterback is the absolute czar. Nothing is more demoralizing to an offense than to have every member of the team a would-be quarterback. Authority must be given to one man and he must also bear the responsibility

Columbus—A shoulder fractured in the Dennison game Saturday has put Bernard Schulist, guard, out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Evanston—The Purple squad starts work today for the game with Lake Forest, Saturday, and the battle with Purdue the following week.

Bloomington, Ind.—Coach Ingram shifted Lorber to quarterback in place of Wilkens, who takes an end job, and sent the Indiana gridders thru a signal drill on a sloppy field.

Philadelphia—Football relations will be renewed next season between Yale and Pennsylvania, it is reported here. They have not played since 1893. Princeton also may be on the Penn schedule next year.

ORANGE LAYS CLAIM TO SEASON'S RECORD

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Syracuse claims a season record in the east in that their goal line has not been crossed, that only ten first downs have been made against them in five games, that McBride has kicked four field goals and that Bowman ran 100 yards for a touchdown.

HOPPE RALLIES TO WIN OVER SCHAEFER

Title Holder Flashes Old Time Form and Finishes in Tie With Westerner—Play-Off Sometime Next Month.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(United Press)—With a sensational rally in which he showed all the brilliante of a great champion, Willie Hoppe defeated Jack Schaefer, 500 to 447 in the final game of the world's 18.2 balk line billiard championship and finished in a tie with Welker Cochrane for the honors.

Hoppe and Cochrane will enter a pay-off match for the title that probably will be staged in Chicago next month.

Schaefer got away to a big lead and early in the match was leading Hoppe, 330 to 69, and later 408 to 269. Hoppe rallied with runs of 152 and 127 and won the match in the twelfth inning.

Hoppe's average was 41 8-12 while Schaefer averaged 40 7-11, with a high run of 167.

Cochrane earned a tie for the honors by beating Edouard Hooremans, the Belgian star, 500 to 472.

Both Hoppe and Cochran lost one out of five matches, Cochran beating Hoppe early in the tournament and Erich Hagenlacher, the German, giving Cochran his only setback.

Princeton.—Charley Caldwell, Princeton's star center, will be able to play Saturday against Harvard, and Rutan, tackle, will be the only regular out of the game.

NO ONE PERMITTED TO WATCH PRACTICE

Task Confronting Nebraskans Is Brought Home More Acutely to Dawson When He Sees Irish in Action.

The lid is on!

Nebraska began on its last leg of preparation for the invasion of Knute Rockne and his Notre Dame Irish behind locked gates Monday evening. When Head Coach Dawson ruled everybody out, there were no exceptions. Sport writers, fans with written permission to attend secret practice and all the rest were excluded.

Coach Dawson got back Monday from South Bend where he saw Notre Dame measure Purdue 34 to 7 Saturday.

"Rockne hasn't a football team. He has an army. He sent in six teams and they all looked sweet. But I still believe we can beat them," Coach Dawson said.

To say that Coach Dawson was merely impressed by the showing of Notre Dame, judging by his demeanor when he began telling about them, would be like describing Niagara falls as cute and the Grand canyon as neat.

Rockne Is Not Pleased.

And a special dispatch to The Journal from its correspondent at South Bend intimates that Coach Rockne was not at all pleased with the showing of the Irish against Purdue. He thinks he erred in permitting them to take things easy the week before the Purdue game.

Reading between the lines, it might be assumed that this week will be a fairly busy one for the Irish.

And realizing the gigantic task before the Cornhuskers, Coach Dawson will undoubtedly redouble his efforts to whip them into shape for the big test Saturday.

There is considerable talk about a wet field working to the advantage of the Huskers in that it might slow down those impeccable Irish. Be that as it may, if Captain Lewellen can win the toss and the Huskers are able to stave off the visitors until they can see for themselves that the Notre Dame players, like all others, are only human in spite of the paean of praise which has been sung for them the length and breadth of the land, then will come that confidence which may surprise a great many of the so-called wise-acres.

Great Crowd Coming.

The Saturday game is attracting one of the greatest crowds in the history of the grid sport at Nebraska. There are still tickets left but judging from the rate they are going there will be none for sale Saturday.

Walter Eckersall of Chicago will referee the game with H. G. Hedges, Dartmouth, umpire; B. L. McCreary, Oklahoma, field judge, and Jay Wyatt, Missouri, head linesman.

Ann Arbor—The Wolverine went thrdu light practice and a signal drill as preparations were started for United States Marines, Saturday.

LEXINGTON FULLBACK SHOWS POSSIBILITIES

F. E. McFarland, a rabid football fan; former player and now an official, saw what he believes to be one of the best high school fullbacks in the state last week. McFarland worked the Lexington-Kearney game. The player that impressed him was Engler, Lexington fullback. He was playing under difficulties having one arm covered with boils. Easterling, the Kearney high star was playing in spite of an accident which cost him the ends of two fingers recently.

"It was an exhibition of real gameness. But both teams exhibited great sportsmanship. The opposing players kept warning each other to be careful about Engler's arm and Easterling's fingers. I call that real sportsmanship," Mr. McFarland stated.

ROCKNE'S WARRIORS TAKE EASY WORKOUT

Regulars Go Thru Signal Drill and Limbering Up Exercises—Expect a Hard Battle at Nebraska.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 5.—Coach Rockne today began his drive for the last four games of the season. Because of the comparative apathy of the team during the last two games, contests which were foregone conclusions as victories—it is thought that the coach will now pick up the reins and begin to whip his men into shape for the remaining contests with Nebraska, Butler, Carnegie Tech, and St. Louis.

The Nebraska contest next Saturday at Lincoln is expected to be the toughest of the tour, because of the preponderance of weight when the Cornhuskers will throw into the game, and the victory of Dawson's team last year. This afternoon's workout was light, only limbering up exercises and signal drills being used. Tomorrow the third string will scrimmage the freshman who will be using Nebraska plays. The regulars will scrimmage Wednesday afternoon.

IRISH VIEW HUSKER GAME WITH CONCERN

SOUTH BEND, Nov. 6.—(United Press.)—The heavy Nebraska team, which is to be met Saturday, is causing the Irish some concern despite Notre Dame's triumphal march over all foes so far this season.

Why a Budget?

Did you get one of our Checker Budget Books?

"Why make a budget?" is a very natural inquiry on the part of those who have never paid much attention to the income and outgo of the family. Yet most families do take stock now and then of how the household and other expenses are running.

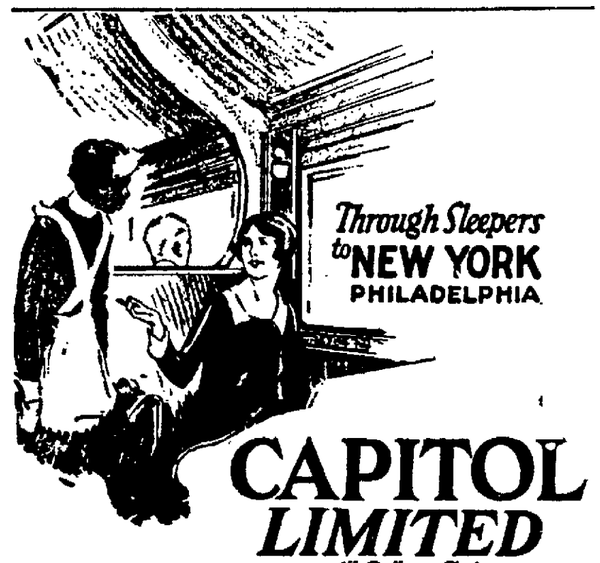

"A budget means simply the dividing of your income into general classifications and allotting to each that portion of your income which you think, in the light of past experience, will be enough to cover the expense. It means planning your spending in advance to get the greatest value from your dollar. The budget will show you just where your money goes and on which items you are spending too much."

The Checker Budget Book has space for the daily expenses for 52 weeks, arranged with columns for keeping track of nine classes of expenditures, as follows: House; Running Expenses; Food; Savings; Insurance; Clothes; Betterment; Recreation; and a blank column for any special item you wish to provide for.

The Savings column can include what you pay each month on the principal of your Prudential Monthly Payment Loan; what you pay on your Modern Investment contract; what you pay on your Lincoln Educational Savings Contract; and any deposits in the savings bank, or paid to the building and loan. But Ettelic payments should go in the Insurance column, while Fire Insurance is a part of House expenses.

Call at our office for a free copy of the Checker Budget Book, or send ten cents stamps if wanted by mail; and leave or send your name and address so we can mail you literature which will aid you in maintaining your budget.

"It takes a Muriel to match a Muriel."

Front place in the show case
—and why

OF the hundred-and-one cigars which the dealer carries, you'll find Muriel perhaps the most frequently displayed—right up in the front of the dealer's show case. Reason: the remarkable loyalty which Muriel smokers show for their favorite cigar.

Muriel is made of an individual combination of fine tobaccos. The inclusion of choicest Havanas gives character. The rich, shade grown wrapper contributes sweetness. Lorillard's exclusive methods of handling give uniformity and perfect balance.

The first step toward perfectly-balanced smoking is to say to yourself

"I'll buy a Muriel today!"

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—Cattle—Receipts 13,500. In most respects the cattle market was a repetition of Monday's trade, active and strong on desirable yearlings and light weight steers, buts low and somewhat lower on heavy and warmed-up cattle. Best yearlings sold around $11 and upward, with best heavy beeves around $10.50@10.75. Cow stuff ruled steady to a little lower and the trade in stockers and feeders was about unchanged.

Hogs—Receipts, 8,000. Shipper buyers and yard traders were active this morning. Heavy packing grades and mixed loads were in good demand, with prices looking mostly steady to strong to in spots possibly 5@10c higher than Monday. Packers were slow in acting and up to a late hour in the forenoon nothing to speak of had found outlet. Bulk of sales $6.50@6.90, top $6.95.

Sheep—Receipts, 5,000. Supplies of fat lambs were again very scant, with buyers finding a little difficulty in getting enough stuff to fill their orders. The market as a whole looked around steady. Nothing real choice was included in the feeder division with prices steady on the little stuff that arrived. Sheep were steady.

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 12,500, market, steady to 15c lower; yearlings, $7.00@11.75, steers, $7.50@12.00, cows and heifers, $2.00@6.50; stockers and feeders, $3.00@7.60, calves, $4.00@10.50; bulls and stags, $3.00@3.60; western rangers, $4.00@8.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 8,000; market, steady to strong; bulk, $6.50@6.90; top, $6.95.

Sheep—Receipts, 5,000, market, steady; yearlings, $8.00@10.00; wethers, $6.00@7.50; lambs, $11.75@12.75, ewes, $3.50@6.15.

These Eggs Not Edible.

Washington Star: American chicken farmers will perhaps be interested in the announcement from Peking to the effect that twenty-five dinosaur eggs have been discovered in the fossil beds of Mongolia, the first of their kind ever to be unearthed. These eggs, it is said, are elliptical, five to six inches in length. Their age is estimated at ten million years.

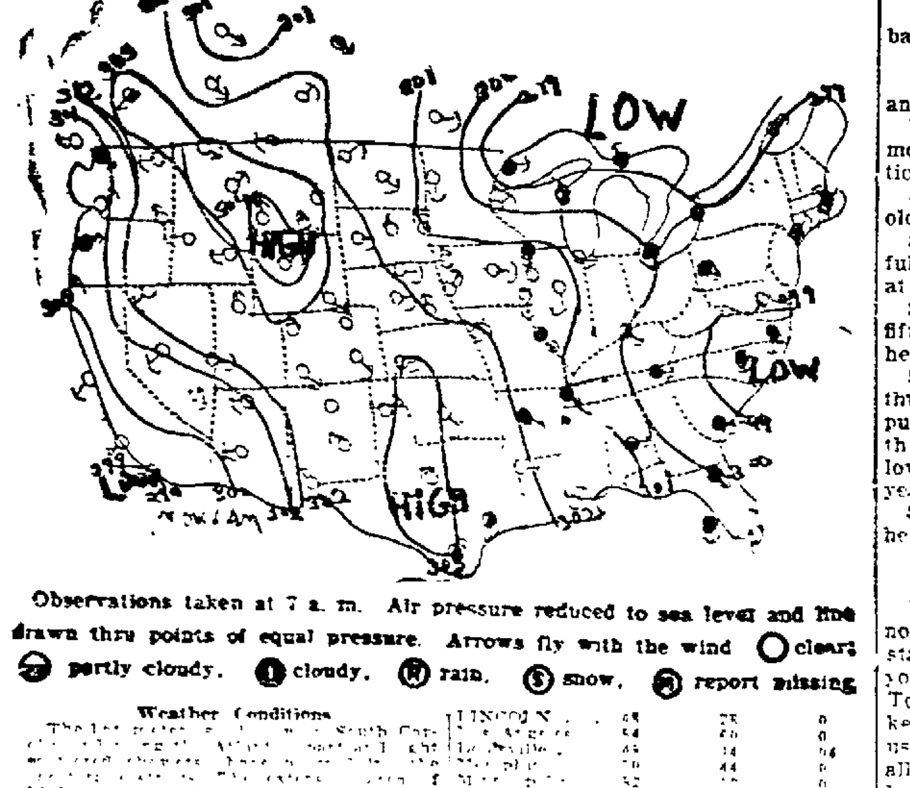

The Chinese have a delicacy of diet consisting of ancient eggs. But there is no record of dinosaur eggs being served even these. In fact, these are the first evidences that the dinosaurs maintained their sequence of life by means of eggs. True, they were virtually lizards and lizards are reptiles, and reptiles lay eggs, so that the reasoning has always been in favor of disosaur's eggs. But not until now has there been any logical proof.

Perhaps if these eggs had been known to the far easterners they might have served for royal feasts. Maybe, in fact, in the past they were used, which may account for the scarcity at present. A ten-million-year egg is, of course, a bit doubtful. The question arises whether any intrepid pioneer of science will undertake to open one of these precious finds to see what it contains. He would probably have to be well insured for the sake of his family.

Apart from the eggs the discoveries in the Mongolian plateau have proved to be most remarkable. Many skeletons have been found there, and it is now believed that the region was the center of the dispersion of the most ancient animals. Seventy dinosaur skulls and twelve complete skeletons were unearthed. In all previous expeditions less than one hundred dinosaur skulls have been found, so that the magnitude of this find is evident.

But the eggs stand forth as the notable achievement.

The First Lady of the Land.

Delineator: She was born of sturdy, hard working Vermont country folk.

She went to college in her native state.

She became a teacher to support herself. She chose the hardest work in her profession—teaching the deaf.

She fell in love with Calvin Coolidge, a young lawyer of Northampton, Mass.

When she married, she knew history well enough to realize that no public servant can make money and that some of our best national leaders had been forced to retire to private life in order to pay their debts.

She has lived within the small income of a public servant. She has proved that life can be enjoyed and adorned without extravagance.

She has never owned a car and never wasted an hour envying people who do.

She has always had to live on a limited purse—and she has done it well.

She has done her own housework most of her life.

She is a good cook—and is proud of it.

She is one of the best-dressed women in Washington. And her husband helps her buy her hats.

She is the mother of two sons, fifteen and seventeen years old.

She knits their socks.

She is a good dancer, a regular church member and leads in the community songs.

She can talk politics or history or baby care in two languages.

Men like her. Women love her.

Men say: "She has a head on her and she knows how to use it."

Women say: "She is a wonderful mother. And she has no affectations."

She is the sort of woman who has old friends.

She has much charm, and beautiful eyes that soften with sympathy at the suffering of man or beast.

She has sat in high places for fifteen years and it has not dizzied her head.

She meets life with the same enthusiasm, the same kindliness and pure, unaffected manner that made the young teacher of the deaf beloved at Northampton nearly twenty years ago.

She believes fervently in her God, her country and her family.

Kipling as Lord Rector.

Montreal Star. Perhaps there is no man writing today who understands the heart and the soul of youth better than Rudyard Kipling. To him has been given in trust the key that unlocks the door of youth usually keeps closed against the disallusion of age. He may enter in and he is made free of the ecstacy and the bitterness that are the heritage of youth. What more natural, therefore than that the man that has written, as no other living writer has done of the things that are nearest and dearest to the heart of youth should elect to speak to youth of two things that most intimately concern it when a great opportunity arises? That opportunity came to Kipling when he was installed as Lord Rector of St. Andrew's university, succeeding Sir James Barrie, who it will be recalled, delivered a memorable address on courage on a similar occasion a year ago.

Kipling's method of attack was as subtle as it was effective. He approached restraint thru independence. And his definition of independence was one of those joyful inspirations so many authors long for and so few receive. "The blessed state of hanging on to as few persons and things as possible." Such a definition could obviously connote nothing other than arboreal men, swinging from tree to tree. And there the students had Kipling in his element. The arboreal man, past master in all the arts of camoflage, rejoicing when speech came in his first lie and thinking himself a god because of the power it gave him over his simpler companions. That was Kipling of the jungle book speaking.

This, however, was merely the Kiplingesque way of luring his hearers to the point where he might more effectively strike to the heart with burning words. And he did so. "At any price I can pay, let me own myself." That was his message to youth. And he told them too, that the price was worth paying, but on one condition alone—that they could keep what they had bought. "Let the council of thy heart stand." A wise man many centuries ago wrote these words in letters that have stood thru the ages. Kipling quotes them to the students today. Thus is wisdom justified of her choice, and the spirit of Experience touches with the wand of sympathetic understanding, the proud soul of Youth. Well may the university be proud to call such a spirit to its rectoral chair.

The President on Rates.

Springfield Republican: President Coolidge has apparently placed himself in a technically inconsistent position in requesting of the railroads (1) that rates on export grain should be reduced and placed on a lower level than that of the domestic rate and (2) that the inequality between the domestic rate on coal and the lower export rate should be reduced. The lower rate on grain would satisfy the demand of the western farmers for relief from railroad charges which they declare to be restraining the sale of wheat for foreign consumption. A reduction of the coal rates would presumably benefit consumers in parts of New England and New York state. The inference is that President Coolidge is more desirous of granting relief where it is needed than of preserving consistency in dealing with rate structures.

There is already a lower rate on export grain that moves thru Boston than on grain destined to the same point for domestic consumption. This arises in the fact that Boston and New York must carry the same export rate. The reason for this again is found in the old policy of trying to equalize the export and import opportunities of north Atlantic ports. In the case of coal shipped out of the country there is no need, however, to overcome by rate differentials the disadvantages that for various causes—chiefly a longer distance from Europe—affect particular ports. The lower export rate on coal to Canada is perhaps governed by the actual or theoretical competition of water routes.

While the president makes no serious mistake in asking for the application of different principles to aid producers on one hand and consumers on the other, it is doubtful whether public policy will be strengthened in the long run by rate adjustments initiated by public officials thru other channels than the procedure of the interstate commerce commission. More and more the decisions of that body are tendering to recognize that distance and cost of service are essential factors in determining just rates. These mathematical principles cannot be rigidly applied, but they can be more closely approximated.

Classicism Reviewed.

T. S. Eliot, the author of The Waste Land, writes about James Joyce and Ulysses in the Dial, and considers in a fresh way the question of classicism: "We agree, I hope, that 'classicism' is not an alternative to 'romanticism,' as of political parties, conservative and liberal, republicar and democrat, on a 'turn-the-rascals-out' platform. It is goal toward which all good literature strives, so far as it is good, according to the possibilities of its place and time. One can be 'classical,' in a sense, by turning away from nine-tenths of the material which lies at hand, and selecting only mummified stuff from a museum—like some contemporary writers, about whom one could say some nasty things in this connection, if it were worth while. Or one can be classical in tendency by doing the best one can with the material at hand. The confusion springs from the fact that the term is applied to literature and to the whole complex of interests and modes of behaviour and society of which literature is a part; and it has not the same bearing in both applications. It is much easier to be a classicist in literary criticism than in creative art—because in criticism you are responsible only for what you want, and in creation you are responsible for what you can do with material which you must simply accept. And in this material I include the emotions and feelings of the writer himself, which, for that writer, are simply material which he must accept—not virtues to be enlarged or vices to be diminished."

His Reason.

"Well, I've bought me a car," announced old Festus Pester.

"Ah, for the pleasure of touring the surrounding territory and—" began Askington.

"No; for the pleasure of not inviting that sore-head, J. Fuller Gloom, to ride whenever I see him."—Kansas City Star.

Got a Start, Anyway.

"How's that college chum of yours who wanted to be a public speaker getting on?"

"Slowly; he's addressing envelopes just at present."—Boston Transcript.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Dr. J. S. Stewart, who recently resigned as superintendent of the institute for feeble minded at Beatrice, has written A. B. Allyn, member of the board of control that he has opened an office at El Monte, Cal., and has six acres of English walnuts to look after on the side. He now considers himself a ranchman as well as a physician.

Ten friends of Dr. and Mrs. Leon C. Patterson, 1127 G street, surprised the doctor on his birthday anniversary, Saturday, and spent an enjoyable evening socially and dancing. An elaborate supper was served. The surprise was fostered by Mrs. Patterson.

Mrs. and Mrs. Rolland Dudley celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage Sunday at their home in University Place. Mr. Dudley and his wife, then Miss Seneth Ogden were married fifty years ago at Weeping Water. They homesteaded in Seward county and moved to a farm in Butler county in 1892, coming to University Place in 1907. There were seven children of whom five are living now. One boy died in childhood and a daughter, Mrs. E. M. Longstreth died in 1908. All the living children were present at the celebration including R. Y. Dudley and family, Sioux City; L. C. Dudley, Fremont; M. E. and J. C. Dudley, Lincoln and Miss Lulu Dudley of University Place. There are fourteen grand children and five great grandchildren. The youngest grand child, Janice Carolyn Dudley, three months old daughter of J. C. Dudley, the youngest son, was christened Sunday afternoon at the Dudley home. Ed Dudley, a brother of Mr. Dudley, who attended the wedding in Weeping Water fifty years ago was present at the celebration. Dinner was served at noon for members of the family and in the afternoon an informal reception was held when about forty-five relatives and friends were present. Yellow chrysanthemums were used thru the rooms and the color scheme used in all the decorations was yellow and white.

A novel autumn dancing party was given at the Lincoln hotel Monday evening when the Hokomok club entertained fifty couples. The autumn colors, yellow, green and brown were featured in the decorative scheme and the lights were all shaded in yellow. The programs were yellow, tied with green cords. Each guest received a leaf and found his partner by finding the person with a like leaf. Forty-eight different kinds of leaves had been found by members of the committee and two of each secured. Nut chocolate bars were the favors for one of the dances. It was ladies' night and the ladies took the lead in all the activities. Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Webster of Havelock were guests of the club.

Notice to Contractors.

MEN AND THINGS

School men like O'Shea of Wisconsin are shaking their heads over the future of the youth of the land, and apparently incline to the opinion that civilization is again threatened. In a recent speech in this section Mr. O'Shea said that America is setting the pace that has preceded the downfall of civilization thruout history. He can build up a strong case to support that theory, but we know of nothing that can be done about it unless everybody agrees to so order their personal conduct as to make that result impossible. The trouble is that each of us wants to and continues to do as we want to do and looks for the other fellow to save civilization. Undoubtedly there were many persons in Rome who saw what was coming and warned the people against it, but Rome fell.

We note a disposition on the part of our severest moralists to hold the young people of today to a stricter accountability than was true of the generation to which they belonged. Maybe to this may be ascribed some of the gloom that is expressed as to the future of the race. The romantic element in young people has often found expression in slipping away and getting married somewhere else, about which there is nothing discreditable and really something appealing to every one's heart and imagination, as illustrated by the phrase that "all the world loves a lover." This has been done in all ages, and yet this is cited to show we are headed for a crash. Isn't there a lot of nonsense in some of our notions?

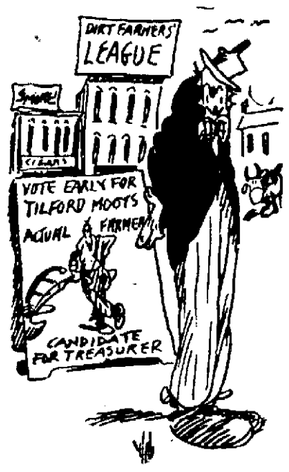

The touchiest chaps we know of are those who edit the southern newspapers. Recently there has been a larger movement than usual of negroes from the south to the north, and those northern editors who have suggested what appeared to be to them reasons for this hegira are being sharply rebuked by the southern editors. They repeat what they have been saying for a good many years that northerners do not understand the negro problem and that they should keep quiet and let the south discuss and solve it itself. In a speech one time Governor Oglesby of Illinois, a partisan republican, declared something to the effect that the democrats had a lot of nerve asking to be put in charge of the government when it was all that the republicans could do to run it.

The esteemed party leaders and politicians oftentimes speak feelingly about the failure of so large a percentage of the voters to participate in an election, and various serious-minded persons who are neither have shown much distress over this indifference to the opportunity presented to every citizen to take part in his government. We note that at the state teachers' convention the other day the president felt impelled to chide the members for failure to take any interest in the political side of the meeting, only a small percentage voting on officers. Indifference is a sign of lack of interest and lack of interest arises either from a lack of comprehension of the importance of voting or a lack of importance to voting. The latter is probably the cause. Does it make so much difference, we ask, who holds the offices, and apparently nobody is able to satisfactorily answer in the affirmative.

Life is a lot like a collection of decks of cards. There are a good many two spots visible. There is one set that rises to supreme power and may subject all others to its rule. It has aids and satellites who oppress others a little weaker than they, but the bulk of the deck is made up of solid substantial persons who have not acquired any great amount of power as represented by wealth, who are not trying to be something they know they are not, and not passing themselves off for ten spots when they can show but five or six pips.

Church union is still being vigorously discussed and some progress is being made right along in getting rid of conditions that are almost intolerable in over-churched communities. Men engaged in this work say that most of the obstacles thrown in the way are by the old people who cling to the old church home and are reluctant to chance losing associations dear to them, and by those who are what we now call fundamentalists, who insist on testing every candidate for religious association with them by his belief in every word written and set down in the Scriptures in their literal form and interpretation.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

6 Minutes To Answer This

In thepre-war days a contractor's payroll amounted to $177 a day, as he had fifteen masons, twenty carpenters and thirty laborers. A mason received as much as a carpenter and laborer together received, and the carpenters altogether received $60 per day.

What were the wages of the masons and laborers?

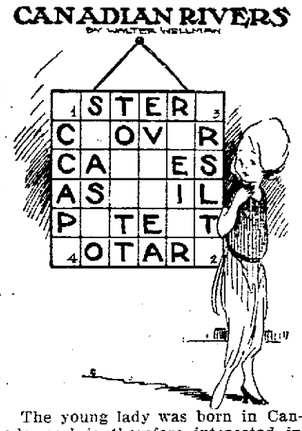

Answer to Yesterday's.

SATAN plus T minus ANT plus URN leaves SATURN.

CANADIAN RIVERS

BY WALTER WELLMAN

The young lady was born in Canada, and is therefore interested in the puzzle. All she has to do is to print the name of one Canadian river in the diagonal 1-2, and the name of another Canadian river in the diagonal 3-4, and she will have six correct words of six letters each as a result. What are the two rivers?

Answer to yesterday's puzzle: HALF A LOAF IS BETTER THAN NONE.

Lucky Hat.

Los Angeles Times: In April, 1919, two prospectors in a wornout Ford were bumping over a California road—John Kelly and Ham Williams, the latter a halfbreed Piute Indian—when Kelly's hat blew off. Ham got out and found it in a small hole some prospector had dug years before. Looking at the exposed rock he said, "This looks like silver ore to me," and filled Kelly's hat with the stuff.

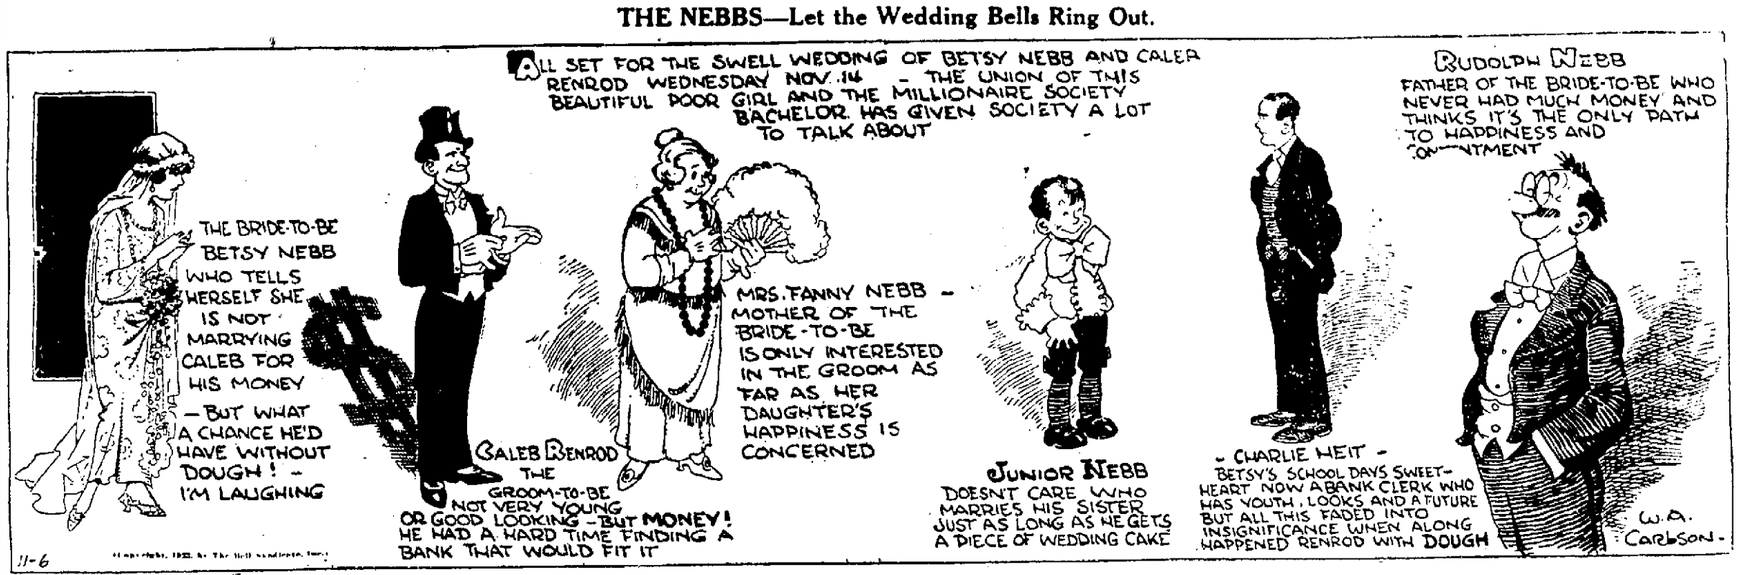

"That's the best hat I've got," objected Kelly. "I wish you would use something else for an ore-sampling bag, but we'll have it assayed."

Thus was discovered California's largest silver mine, the California-Rand, at Randsburg. In its first year, it yielded more than $1,000,000 worth of silver.

Not in the Auto Class.

Indianapolis News: A New York banker was killed on a golf course when struck by a companion's mid-iron, but golf still has a long way to go to catch up with the casuality list of almost any other sport.
